BULLETINS

BERLIN, May 21 (AP)—The British ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, today asked the German foreign office the second time for assurances that troop movements toward the frontiers Germany wants to expand were only routine training moves.

LONDON, May 21 (INS)—A report, unconfirmed by any other source, that 30 persons were killed in an attempted Sudeten German coup in Czechoslovakia was carried today by the Intercontinental Press and News Agency, a South African organization.

The armed revolt, said the report, broke out in 12 Czech towns simultaneously, but failed at all points.

By International News Service

Killing of two German farmers in Czechoslovakia, coupled with troop movements on both sides of the Czech-German frontier, today brought about a new European crisis.

PRAGUE—Western borders of Czechoslovakia on virtual war footing. Four classes of army reservists called. All frontier fortifications manned.

Two Germans killed at Eger, said a Czech official bulletin, tried to run through a police blockade. Tension high on eve of municipal elections to test political strength of the 3,500,000 Czech-Germans.

BERLIN—Germany, through its controlled press, warns the Prague government "will be held fully responsible for all future developments."

German troop concentrations reported on the Czech border.

LONDON—So grave was the situation Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, rushed back to London from the country for conferences.

London Standard says Hitler plans to have Conrad Henlein, leader of Czech Germans, proclaim autonomy for the Sudetens after the elections, abolishing the frontiers between German-Czechoslovakia and the Reich.

A Czech Coup!

LONDON, May 21 (INS)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler plans to have Konrad Henlein, his Czech lieutenant, proclaim autonomy for the 3,500,000 Sudetan Germans in Czechoslovakia immediately after tomorrow's elections, the London Evening Standard asserted today.

Henlein, the paper said, will establish a governing council for Sudetan territory, abolish the frontier between Sudeten Czechoslovakia and Germany and offer to negotiate with the Czech government on a basis of equality.

If the latter uses force to resist the plan, Henlein will appeal to Germany for "protection," with an armed invasion by Reich troops inevitable, the Standard said.

Czech Army On War Basis

By GEORGE LANGWEIL

PRAGUE, May 21 (INS)—The western frontiers of Czechoslovakia, caught between the pincers of Germany and Austria, were placed upon virtual war footing today.

An atmosphere of grave tension prevailed following the killing of two Sudeten Germans by Czechoslovakian police near Eger, aggravated by charges and counter-charges of deliberate provocation hurled against one another by Czech and German spokesmen.

Reservists were called up in Czechoslovakia, and the crack border fortifications were manned to the hilt. But officials of this harried central European democracy, hemmed in by dictatorship nations, pledged themselves to pursue a peaceful course.

TROOPS ON GUARD

Tension, however, was particularly noticeable all along the border between Czechoslovakia and Austria. Fear and unrest hung over the town of Bruno, only a few miles from the frontier.

At Reichenberg and other towns in the Sudeten area military guards were posted at all public buildings, and the roads were clogged with reinforcements being rushed to border stations.

This day, which may decide the fate of Czechoslovakia, found President Edouard Benes at Tabor in Southern Bohemia. To a gathering of supporters, he shouted:

"We are not afraid of the future."

Coupled with this strong declaration, however, was an expression of hope that war will be avoided. He urged all Czechoslovakians to act in a conciliatory manner and take no action, during municipal elections scheduled for tomorrow, that might be calculated to cause disorders.

ONE SHOT KILLS TWO

Meanwhile, an official statement described the inflammatory incident at Eger as follows:

"At an early hour this morning, two German motorcyclists drove along a road from Franzenbad to Eger.

"The road had been blocked by police for the express purpose of preventing political demonstrators from proceeding to Eger from other towns nearby.

"The two cyclists were repeatedly warned by signals and loud shouts to halt, but both tried to pass the barrier at high speed.

"Thereupon one shot was fired. The bullet struck both men. One was killed instantaneously. The other died in a hospital three hours later.

"An official investigation has been begun into this regrettable occurrence."

TROOPS HALT FIGHT

Czechoslovakian troops maintained peace in the city of Chodau after quelling an outbreak of violent rioting between Nazi German Sudetens and sabre-wielding police.

Several were seriously hurt when officers charged the mob with drawn sabres and pistols. The riot occurred in the midst of a tense pre-election campaign.

Paris Faces Duce Edict

(Copyright, 1938)

ROME, May 21 (INS)—Premier Mussolini sharply cut off Italo-French friendship talks today and warned that continued French acquiescence in the shipment of arms to government Spain would "not be tolerated."

As France and Italy snarled across the border of Libya and Tunisia, the door was banged shut on negotiations for a pact between Paris and Rome to parallel the Anglo-Italian accord.

PRIVATE TALKS BANNED

Il Duce, it was learned on high authority, served flat notice on France that friendly conversations cannot be resumed until Gererallissimo Francisco Franco wins a clear-cut victory for the Insurgents.

Even private talks through diplomatic channels cannot be carried on, said Mussolini.

The Italian dictator protested strongly against use of France as a stepping-stone for the transshipment of arms and ammunition from Soviet Russia and Czechoslovakia into government Spain.

DEMANDS ARMS HALT

The Pyrenees must be closed "immediately" to illicit munitions traffic, Mussolini thundered.

Closing of the French-Spanish frontier, and the question of withdrawal of Italian and German "volunteers" from Spain will be taken up at a meeting of the Spanish non-intervention committee in London next Thursday.

There 27 powers will try, over the conference table, to end one of the most dangerous crises to confront Europe in recent weeks.

GUARD SELECTMAN

Police guarded the home of Selectman Harry R. Butters of Norwood today after he received four anonymous threatening telephone calls because he revoked the permit for a meeting of Spanish government sympathizerss.

Britain in Stew On War Crisis

By KINGSBURY SMITH

LONDON, May 21 (INS)—Gravely concerned by the rising tension between Czechoslovakia and Nazi Germany, Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, today cut short a weekend at Oxford and rushed back to London.

He went into immediate conference with his aides at the foreign office.

It was generally felt Europe is facing the gravest crisis it has known since Adolf Hitler's legions marched into Austria.

It was learned that Great Britain regards the Sudeten German's refusal to negotiate with the Prague government pending guarantees that their constitutional rights will be respected, as "unreasonable."

Such refusal, it was felt here, is tantamount to putting the cart before the horse, as such guarantees obviously will form part of the negotiations when they take place.

Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, was instructed to inform Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to this effect and to express hope that pressure would be brought on Konrad Henlein, Sudeten Nazi leader, to alter his stand.

the hour.

The alleged killing of two Sudeten German farmers by Czech soldiers at Eger near Franzenbad sent the Nazi press into a fury of indignation.

Columns of black type in all Berlin papers warned that the Prague government "will be held fully responsible for all future developments and consequeneces."

The warnings were grimly reminiscent of those delivered to the Schuschnigg government in Austria immediately before Hitler marched into Vienna.

From various frontier points there continued to flow into Berlin a ceaseless stream of rumors that German troops also are being rushed to the border areas.

German officials persisted in denying any extraordinary moves. But it was learned on good authority that reserve officers in the Berlin district at least had been called up for "indefinite maneuvers."

12 Die in Air Raid on Madrid

MADRID, May 21 (AP)—At least 12 persons were killed and about 40 injured today by a pre-dawn bombardment in which Insurgent siege guns pumped more than 200 shells into Salamanca, the residential district.

A large shell crashed into the Venezuelan consulate, decapitating Eduardo Lozano, brother of former Consul Isidro Lozano, as he lay in bed.

Three consulate servants were killed and five injured. Eight persons were killed and two wounded in a building opposite the consulate.

Fight for Tiny Girl's $150,000

The claim of little golden-haired Mary Alice Gale of Burlington, Vt., to her grandmother's $150,000 treasure of money and jewels was challenged today by her mother, uncle and two aunts.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Mulholland of Peabody, who was stricken at her son's home on Mother's Day and died there three days later, left her entire fortune to her six-year-old granddaughter. For four of her children, her will had these words:

"I purposely leave my three daughters, Mrs. Grace Gale Leland of Burlington, Vt., Mrs. Elizabeth Balch of Lynn and Mrs. Richard Bartlett of Montclair, N. J., and my son, Alexander Mulholland of Ipswich, exactly nothing."

Attorney M. J. Reardon of Salem, counsel for the four, admitted they intended to contest the will and seek to have the estate equally divided by the court.

Two months ago Mrs. Mulholland instituted police search in five states for her daughter, Alice, 36, who disappeared in December and has been missing since. Friends of the daughter, who is an heiress in her own right to $25,000, stated she was writing for publications in New York.

Landon, Aiken On Fishing Trip

AVERILL, Vt., May 21—Alfred M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, and Republican Governor George D. Aiken today were mixing fishing and politics at isolated Cold Spring camps, near the Canadian border.

The fishing was excellent but on politics—well, there was no comment to be made. Landon will leave here tomorrow for Pittsfield, Mass., to be the guest of friends, and then will continue on to New York.

Lynn Girl Saved In Death Attempt

Luck played against a girl's self-destruction intent today in Lynn, and she was saved from death by gas fumes, according to police.

The girl, who had registered at a Union street lodging house as Miss Flora Rich, said she was an attendant at a Lynn doctor's office. She gave police three different names and addresses after she had been revived at Lynn Hospital.

Police say she wrote an unaddressed note:

"I am sorry; please forgive me. I have been out of work."

Suit is filed in Los Angeles.

Floe Leader Purges Reds

MOSCOW, May 21 (AP)—Ivan Papanin, commander of Soviet Russia's Arctic ice floe campers, has completely shaken up the office management of the Northern Sea route administration, newspapers disclosed today.

Papanin was made second in command to Dr. Otto J. Schmidt, head of the government bureau that directs Russia's vast activities in the Arctic, two months ago.

He was said to have found the office crowded with "enemies and bureaucrats" and to have replaced all the administration's office workers.

WRECKING BLASTED

Shortly after Papanin's appointment following his return from the Arctic, the government publicly censured "wrecking" in the administration, which it blamed for the plight of several Russian ships frozen in the Arctic ice.

The other three campers with Papanin have been given key posts. Ernest Krenkel, it was disclosed, has been made chief of Arctic radio stations and Peter Shirshov director of the All-Union Arctic Institute at Leningrad. Eugene Federov has been given every opportunity for scientific research.

The government has ordered prosecution of F. I. Zenyuk, head of the Moscow light trust, for wasting electricity by letting street lights burn after dawn.

LIGHT WASTED

Zenyuk was charged with violating an order issued last February reducing street lights, store lighting and illuminated window signs by 25 to 40 per cent.

Managers of a book store, garage and dry cleaning shop who let lights burn all night were reprimanded.

AFL, CIO Aligned in Vital Test

PORTLAND, Ore., May 21 (AP)—The conservative agricultural element challenged Oregon labor today and gave Gov. Charles H. Martin a slim lead over the favorite of two New Dealers in the significant Democratic primary contest for governor.

The governor, who described himself as loyal to President Roosevelt without offering "rubber stamp" endorsement to the administration's program, led Henry L. Hess of La Grande, former state senator, by 446 votes in the unofficial count from 1112 of the state's 1681 precincts. Martin's total was 20,855 against 30,409 for Hess.

TOTALS STILL DOUBTFUL

Hess, described by Martin as a John L. Lewis CIO candidate, looked to reports from 210 missing precincts in labor's chief strongholds to draw him back toward the 2000-vote leadership he had held.

Martin hoped for additional strength in 179 missing precincts in the well-populated farming country.

Hess drew his votes primarily from the lumbering counties.

There the AFL and CIO, targets of Martin attacks for a tieup in the lumber industry, were apparently aligned for the first time since the presidential vote in 1936.

THREATENS NLRB

The governor, who used the language of his army training as a major-general, threatened to "kick the pants" off the National Labor Relations Board and assailed Secretary of Labor Perkins as "that miserable secretary."

Charles A. Sprague, Salem editor, pulled swiftly away from seven rivals in the Republican gubernatorial contest. The count in 1102 precincts gave him 38,643 and Sam Brown, his closest opponent, 15,922.

Boston Clerk Dying of Stab

Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., 23, of Wakefield, a clerk in the United States engineering office in Boston, found life's load too heavy to carry, paid 69 cents for a sharp-bladed butcher knife and plunged it six inches into his chest and lung.

This was revealed by police today, when Holmes, son of a wealthy Eastport, Me., resident and father of a 14-month-old daughter, was found kneeling on the Albany Post road in Tarrytown, N. Y.

He is no relation to the late Supreme Court justice of the same name.

At Tarrytown Hospital doctors declared Holmes had little chance to survive.

TOLD OF "HOLDUP"

When Holmes was taken to the hospital he told police he had been held up and robbed by two men near John D. Rockefeller estate in North Tarrytown.

Police hurried to the scene and there found strewn about Holmes' personal effects, including a telegram from his wife begging him to return to her home in Lubec, Me.

Confronted with the telegram from his wife and the discovery of his hidden money, Holmes, according to police, confessed his story of the holdup was a hoax.

"COULDN'T CARRY LOAD"

Police quoted Holmes:

"There is no trying to fool you fellows. I did it myself. I bought a butcher knife in New York and I decided to come up here. I bought a round-trip ticket.

"I walked over the aqueduct down through Sleepy Hollow Cemetery and then I decided to end it all. I was discouraged. I just couldn't carry the load any longer. I stabbed myself.

"There was no trouble between me and my wife. We love each other. The only reason I did it was because I was discouraged. I couldn't carry the load."

YD Marches Today in R. I.

Retiring Leader Urges Sobriety

PROVIDENCE, May 21 — Yankee Division veterans prepared for their huge parade today with the sobering admonition from retiring National Commander A. Raymond Doucette they drink sodas and milk shakes at conventions in the future.

More than the usual number of delegates to the hilarious convention showed clear eyes and straight posture after Doucette's warning they are getting too old to "take it" and more than the usual number of "on the wagon" pledges were heard.

"Milk shakes and ice cream sodas are better for fellows our age," Doucette said in his final speech to his "buddies." "I get up this morning without a headache. That's more than some of you can say.

"STOP GALLIVANTING"

"Bring your wives to these conventions and stop gallivanting around. I bring my wife to the conventions now. In a few years I hope to be able to bring my daughter."

The battle-scarred veterans listened quietly. At the end of the speech there was applause and a few scattered "Boohs."

Doucette was scheduled to go out of office this morning to make way for his successor. The battle for national commander centers about Clyde C. Elliott, Worcester fireman, and Edgar F. Miller, Hartford insurance man.

The support of Boston's YD membership for Miller was expected to assure his election.

15,000 MARCH

This afternoon's parade, expected to be Rhode Island's greatest veteran demonstration, will have 15,000 marchers, including 4000 YD veterans and their auxiliaries, army, navy and National Guard units, and 90 bands and drum corps.

More than 250,000 persons will witness the parade, which will start at 1 p. m. from the Dexter training grounds and wind one and nine-tenths miles to Exchange terrace.

Hartford was selected as the site of next year's convention, when a $30,000 memorial to General Edwards will be unveiled.

Kills 2 Children, Fires Home

PATERSON, N. J., May 21 (AP) —The bodies of two young children, whose heads, police said, had been crushed with a heavy instrument, were found today by firemen in the smoke-filled living room of their flat.

Sergeant Thomas Lyons reported their father, Alfred Schwartzenback, 25-year-old unemployed silk dyers' helper, said he killed the boy and girl, Albert, 3, and Lorraine, 1, with a machinist's hammer because he was "out of work and discouraged."

Tunnel Load Blamed

Tieup of traffic in the vicinity of Sumner tunnel is due to inability of the tunnel to absorb the number of cars seeking entrance and not to parked autos and push-cart pedlars, as charged by the traffic commission, Police Commissioner Timilty declared today. He said police have kept the avenue of approach open but that 2800 cars were trying to get through the tunnel in an hour when capacity is only about 1400.

Identity of the witnesses has been closely guarded by Attorney General Paul A. Dever.

13 Dead Ends in Her Tragedy---

Gas for 'Cinderella'

NEW YORK, May 21 (INS)—There were 13 cigarette ends on the floor. Near them, her head cushioned on pillows and a slight smile on her lips, lay Helen Thornton Willis today. The room was filled with gas, and she was dying.

She had been a "Cinderella girl." Formerly a typist, she had startled society on both sides of the Atlantic by eloping with Frederic A. Willis of the social register, who numbers Winston Churchill of England among his relatives and is assistant to the president of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

She and Willis had been divorced . . . another romance had gone badly, it was said . . . So those 13 cigarette ends were, in police theory, her final gesture against a life that had turned out badly.

GENIUS WITH 'ADS'

Placing 26 cents—all the cash she had, apparently—on a dresser in her swanky apartment in Park avenue, she had smoked the cigarettes until she reached the unlucky last . . . and then had turned on the gas.

HELEN THORNTON WILLIS

Helen Thornton Willis, even though she began as a typist, was looked on by many as an advertising genius. She adopted commercial publicity after her marriage failed. She was unsuccessful, however, in a publicity venture in England in which she hoped to introduce "American methods," and returned to New York.

She was still beautiful; she had brown hair and green eyes, and her name was linked for a time with that of Alton A. Brody, who recently divorced the daughter of Irvin S. Cobb, the author and newspaper writer.

SISTER TAKES BODY

Today, apparently in preparation for death, she donned a black gown. Then, without shoes or stockings, she lay down on the improvised bed of pillows.

There she smoked one cigarette after the other, and with the last puff opened the burners in the kitchen stove.

She was still breathing faintly when the police arrived with inhalators, but they could not revive her.

Her sister, Mrs. Robert Reid of Wilton, Ct., took charge of the body.

Peons on March In Mexican 'War'

By ARTHUR CONSTANTINE
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, May 21 (INS)—Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, overlord of San Luis Potosi, today led his peon army in open revolt, and unrest in four other states threatened to turn Mexico into another Spain.

With three thousand followers, Gen. Cedillo, once a hard-riding member of Pancho Villa's bandit band, took up positions in the mountains of San Luis Potosi and announced:

"I have no alternative but to fight!"

He then called the remainder of his "private army" of 15,000 peasants to rise in rebellion against President Lazaro Cardenas's socialization and anti-church program.

Eighteen thousand federal troops were mobilized in San Luis Potosi and adjoining states. The war ministry made the grimly succinct observation:

"There has been no fighting—yet."

Other federal troops were sped to Orizaba, in the state of Vera Cruz, but the government would not disclose the reason.

Likewise, seething with opposition to the leftist policies of President Cardenas were the states of Sonora, adjoining Arizona, Nuevo Leon, adjoining Texas; and Sianola.

President Cardenas, daringly invading the territory of Gen. Cedillo, made a final effort to settle the San Luis Potosi situation peacefully when he sent an emissary to Cedillo urging him to discuss a peaceful arrangement.

Federal airplanes were used to drop propaganda pamphlets on San Luis Potosi, appealing to the peons to surrender their arms and promising them advantages under the Cardenas regime.

Cardenas is said to be especially weak in the tier of states adjoining the United States, where his agrarian policies are unpopular.

Harlan Trial Opens Monday

LONDON, Ky., May 21 (INS)—With a 12-man jury finally selected to hear the "Bloody Harlan County" federal labor trial, government and defense attorneys today settled down to make last minute preparations for the reconvening of the court Monday.

The government charges 64 Kentucky coal operators and their deputies with using criminal methods to prevent unions from organizing in the rich Harlan County coal fields.

The government is spending $2000 a day on the trial, which is expected to last two months, in an effort to win the case and put teeth into the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Gunmen Fare Poorly

Crime didn't pay in Boston today. Two gunmen obtained but 60 cents when they held up Frank O'Brien, 22, an employe at the Massachusetts General Hospital, early today on the Esplanade.

Business was even worse for a holdup man who entered the offices of the Scottish Rites, Masonic Temple, on Boylston street, Back Bay. He left after an employe convinced him there wasn't a cent on the premises.

This Alarm No 'False'; It Saved Life of a Pal

Legally, it was the wrong thing to do, but morally it was justifiable, and today two Chelsea boys were glad they pulled in a "false" fire alarm to save the life of 'Sandy", Scotch collie who was slowly bleeding to death.

Sandy, pal of the Prattville neighborhood in Chelsea, was romping through a field with John O'Neil, 13, of Cook avenue, and Lee Sanberg, 18, of Garfield avenue, when he jumped on a broken bottle and severed an artery and two tendons in his hind leg.

The dog collapsed as the blood poured from the wound. The boys carried him to the street, a quarter of a mile away. Failing to get aid, the pulled the box.

A police cruiser arrived with the fire apparatus and the officers gave the dog first aid. He was taken to his Nichols street home and a veterinary took ten stitches in the wound.

Told "Sandy" would be well again in two weeks, young O'Neil and Sandberg gave whoops of joy—and there was no indication that any punishment would be meted out for the 'false" fire alarm.

G-Men Guard Son of Ball Club's Owner

PHILADELPHIA, May 21 (INS)—Terror gripped a number of prominent Quaker City residents, including the family of Gerald P. Nugent, president of the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club, as a result of threatening notes mailed them by a mysterious extortionist, it was revealed today.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, headed by J. Edgar Hoover and aided by local police, have been trying for weeks to trap the culprit, without success.

All of the intended victims have been under heavy guard, including Gerald P. Nugent, Jr., 10, son of the baseball magnate.

The demands, which in the case of young Nugent threatened that "Young Gerry will be spirited away and you will never see him again, unless the money is paid," have all been conveyed in messages made up of letters taken from newspapers and pasted on yellow foolscap.

Two detectives and two G-men have guarded the boy constantly ever since the threats were first received.

'No Rail Strike,' Green Believes

CINCINNATI, O., May 21 (INS)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, maintained today that there would not be a general strike of railroads because of pending wage reductions.

"I can't believe the railroad executives will push their wage demands to such a degree as to bring about a strike," the labor chieftain declared.

Referring to his bitter labor rivals, the Committee for Industrial Organization, Green said the A. F. of L. would ultimately absorb the CIO.

"Without financing by the United Mine Workers there would be no CIO today and the CIO will last only as long as the mine workers continue to finance it," he said.

Cedillo Family Reported in U. S.

LAREDO, Tex., May 21 (INS)—The wife of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, Mexican leader who is being pursued by Mexican government troops in the mountain fastnesses of San Luis Potosi is now in the United States with her four daughters, it was reported here today.

The five members of the Cedillo family, accompanied by four other persons, crossed the border by auto, and when they left here they said they were en route to California.

Fatal Plane Crash Blamed on Pilots

LOS ANGELES, May 21 (AP)—A coroner's jury described today as "accidental and due to faulty judgment on the part of both pilot and co-pilot" the crash of an $80,000 transport plane in the Saugus Hills Monday, which killed nine persons.

Testimony was given that a likely reason for the ship flying close to the ground was the encountering of unexpected fog.

Rubye Main 'Exhibit' in Court Case

RUBYE ZIONCHECK

WASHINGTON, May 21 (INS)—Mrs. Rubye Nix Zioncheck, widow of the late madcap Congressman from Seattle, Marion A. Zioncheck, was the defendant in a two-year-old court case here, and she drew more attention than did the exhibits.

A jury including four women scanned mutilated furniture exhibits, then turned eyes upon the comely blonde who was led from a stenographer's desk in the Public Works Administration to the altar by the youthful congressman a few months before he plunged to his death from a Seattle hotel window.

As administrator of the estate of her late husband, Mrs. Zioncheck is defending a suit for $2700 filed by Mrs. Pamela S. Young for damages sustained by the furniture in the apartment she rented to Zioncheck.

Mrs. Young testified that chairs were broken, bed posts irreparably marred, vases and lamps smashed, and typewriters hurled from the windows of the Harvard Hall apartment during its occupancy by Zioncheck.

The jury paid polite attention—but with eyes centered mainly on the petite widow, who will take the stand Monday in defense against the suit.

Lang Buried In Alpine Town

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany, May 21 (AP)—Anton Lang, the Christ of this Alpine village's world famous Passion Play, was buried today.

The village gave "its great son and first burgher," who died in a Munich hospital, "A solemn homecoming."

Almost the whole population, as well as visiting American tourists, attended the services for the 63-year-old impersonator of the Saviour.

The coffin almost was hidden under wreaths from Oberammergau families and fellow actors. There were no tributes, however, from Nazi party or state authorities.

Wellesley Floats on Lake Waban Portray Legend of Robin Hood

The legend of Robin Hood was colorfully told at the annual Wellesley College float night by nine floats passing in review on the waters of Lake Waban.

Also on the program were crew races, with the seniors winning both the first and second events before a large throng of spectators.

The varsity crew, whose members also comprised the first senior crew, were:

Elizabeth Thorogood of Waban, captain; Natalie Gordon, Brooklin; Marjorie Morgan, Germantown, Pa.; Miriam Swaffield, Taunton; Marjorie Breen, Caldwell, N. J.; Priscilla Fall, Malden; Margaret Bass, Wilton, Me.; Elizabeth Ann Turner, Pagoso Springs, Colo.; Eva Wallen, Morrisville, Pa.

Miriam Swaffield, 38, of Taunton, was chairman of Float Night. Others who helped arrange the entertainment were: Cynthia Kilburn, New Bedford, business manager; Emilie Little, Longmeadow, pageant head; Alice Corcoran, West Springfield, costumes; Rebecca Jackson, Wellesley Hills, publicity, and Helene Kazanjian, signals.

Hunt Woman Here In Maine Slaying

John W. Penney, wealthy Auburn, Me., motor camp operator, who had devoted ten years of his life to trap his father's shot-gun slayer and then fell a killer's victim himself, may have been slain by a Boston woman.

The possibility a woman bludgeoned him to death with a heavy piece of brass pipe, while her male escort stood outside an overnight camp as a lookout, was revealed today by Sheriff Eugene A. Cloutier.

PROBE TRNS HERE

Investigation of Penny's murder centered here today as police sought a mystery couple who registered at the camp as residents of Boston, arriving in a Massachusetts registered automobile. They were the last persons to appear at Penney's camps on the night he was found slain, Sheriff Cloutier revealed.

They were not about the camp the following morning. The beds in the camp were undisturbed.

EXAMINE PIPE

The brass pipe found in a corner of the camp apparently had been hastily tossed away by the slayer of Penney. At the Massachusetts state police laboratory examination of the weapon for fingerprints and evidence of human hair was awaited.

Sheriff Cloutier also brought with him to Boston casts of tire tread marks left by the automobile.

An Honest Gunman

AVON, May 21 (AP)—Maurice Hansel, dairy owner and bee fancier, was doing fine with his bees until a next door neighbor mistook him for a holdup man.

The neighbor became alarmed when she saw a gun-toting man wearing a hood and veil talking to another neighbor and hurried to tell Mrs. Hansel.

One peek out the window and Mrs. Hansel exclaimed, "Why, that is my husband," and explained the hood and veil were protection against stings and the weapon was a "smoke gun" to drive off bees when they became too thick.

Report Awaited In Woman's Death

Report of the medical examiner was awaited today in the death of Mrs. William H. Walker, 54, whose body was found by her husband in their Dorchester avenue, South Boston, home when he returned from a 15-day fishing trip.

The woman had been seen last on May 9. Sergeant Henry Tanner stated she was fully clothed and had a bruise on the left side of her face.

Mrs. Louise Lavelle, 60, housekeeper for John Moshnichka of Federal street, Weymouth, was found dead in bed today. Doctors said she died of natural causes.

Lyons Blames Politics for School Plight

Alarming conditions in the Cambridge schools, seven of which have been branded firetraps, were blamed by Mayor John W. Lyons today on leading members of the Cambridge Taxpayers' Association and a leading Republican politician.

The Cambridge mayor stated the school house deficiencies would have been remedied through the $1,000,000 loan order which was turned down in the Legislature rules committee.

He added that the Cambridge association and ranking Republicans had worked hand in hand to embarrass him and that they must bear the censure for present conditions.

News of the plight of Cambridge school buildings was revealed by David C. Milne, inspector in the Public Safety Department, who declared that seven of the city's 26 schools are either unsanitary or fire-traps. He said he would seek a Superior Court injunction to close them unless repairs are made by next fall.

"The schools were to be taken care of in my $1,000,000 loan order," Mayor Lyons declared. "But the rules committee defeated me with only six of the regular 12 members present."

U. S. Officers Bring Man From Illinois

Accompanied by two U. S. marshals, Paul J. Moore, 42, of Newark, N. J., arrived today from Chicago to face federal charges of soliciting money from a Malden man underf alse pretenses.

Moore, who recently completed a one-year sentence in Illinois on the same charge, posed as an "influential government man." He allegedly promised an interpreter's job in the immigration office to Charles DiLuca of Malden.

ABC Board Demands Proof of 'Corruption'

Branded as "the most corrupt commission in the state," the Massachusetts Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission today demanded proof of the accusation from the Rev. Edward C. Camp of Watertown.

The charge was hurled at the State Congregational Conference held at Dedham. Acting in behalf of members of the commission, William H. Hearn, secretary, sent the following letter to Rev. Mr. Camp:

"My Dear Sir—Newspapers published in Boston under dates of May 18 and 19 made reference to an address which you delivered before the 138th session of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society at Allin Congregational Church, Dedham, on May 18. In these articles you were quoted as having stated that this commission was the 'most corrupt commission in the state.'

"Will you be kind enough to furnish us, at your earliest convenience, with the full text of your address; or, if no such text was prepared, will you advise if the words contained in the quotation attributed to you were in fact used by you? If you were incorrectly quoted, will you be good enough to inform us as to exactly what language you did employ to characterize the commission?"

Dignes Girl Joins Mama

Joyous

Reunited Here After 10 Years

Josephine Dignes, 14, of Provincetown, set out to see the sights of Boston today after a reunion with her mother, Mrs. Anna V. Dignes, from whom she has been separated for 10 years.

Amicable settlement has been made in the famous custody case which disturbed Barnstable county courts for years.

WITH FOSTER-MOTHER

At Provincetown a sister, Maureen, 16, was caring for her ailing foster-mother, Mrs. Laura A. Knowles. Mother and foster-mother have warred in the courts, the former seeking to regain her children, the latter petitioning for guardianship.

Judge C. C. Campbell ruled in Barnstable court in April that the children could not be legally kept from their mother, but recognizing at the same time the years of faithful service to them by Mrs. Knowles, who first was their nurse.

HUSBAND VANISHED

Maureen will come to Boston soon for a week-end. Both girls then are to spend the summer with Mrs. Knowles at Provincetown. Next fall the children are to be with their mother, according to counsel for Mrs. Dignes.

AFTER TEN YEARS—Up early from a grand time of seeing the sights of Boston, Mrs. Anna V. Dignes of South End poses with her daughter, Josephine, 13, from whom she was separated 10 years. Reunion followed settlement of custody case which went on for years.

Budget Fate Uncertain

State House observers today predicted two gubernatorial fates for the $71,715,118 General Appropriations Bill, passed to be enacted by both branches of the Legislature.

Consideration by Governor Hurley awaits only action by the Senate on a motion to reconsider by Senator Thomas H. Burke.

One group felt Hurley would sign the bill since it varies but slightly from the original budget he submitted in January.

Another group believed he would veto the $8,000,000 bill for highway construction and request the Legislature to transfer the sum from the highway gasoline tax fund to the general fund, in an effort to reduce the state tax.

Winant to Get New Labor Berth

GENEVA, May 21 (INS)—Former Governor John H. Winant of New Hampshire will be appointed chairman of the international labor office, succeeding Harold Butler, resigned, it was learned today.

Civil War 'Yankee,' 90, Spurns 'Rebel' Flag

PITTSFIELD, May 21—One flag and one nation—the ideals he fought for more than 70 years ago—still burn brightly in the soul of 90-year-old Edwin H. Lincoln, Civil War veteran, who refused today to attend the G. A. R.'s Gettysburg reunion with Southern veterans next month.

Lincoln refuses to march behind the Confederate flag, the flag he once battled to destroy in the same Gettysburg where the reunion is to be held.

"I wouldn't mind quite so much if they only displayed that flag on their tenting ground," the aged veteran stated.

"I also would be willing to march with the rebels, but not behind their flag. But that flag went out when the North won the war. It doesn't do any good to keep things like that alive."

Married Teachers Warned of Vote

Superintendent of Schools Everett W. Ireland of Somerville today prepared service of notices on 14 married women teachers that a vote will be taken on their dismissal at a future school committee meeting.

His action was taken despite notice from Reuben L. Lurie, counsel for the teachers, that the move might be held in contempt of the Supreme Court. Ireland is cited to appear before the court June 3 on a writ of mandamus filed by Mrs. Fernell B. Hougton of Melrose.

Gala Program For Dinner to George Holland

A film showing the colorful career of George Holland, famous Boston American columnist, from his early youth to his present post, will be one of the features at the testimonial dinner to be tendered him next Tuesday at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

Other features of the entertainment for the "welcome back" party to the writer who was badly injured in an accident early last year will be acts by the famous stars of stage, screen and radio. The entertainment will be broadcast from a local radio station.

Geo. Holland

Famous guests from every walk of life, newspapermen, public and private officials, theater and stage folk, baseball, boxing, racing and hockey men, players from every field of sport and endeavour will attend the "friendship dinner."

Governor Hurley and Mayor Tobin and many guests from New York will be present. The affair is being staged by 300 friends of Holland.

Joseph H. Brennan, executive secretary of Allied Theaters, Col. A. Rufus Somerby and Jack Brown head the committee in charge. Joe Toye, editorial writer, will be toastmaster.

There will first be a reception, then the guests will be led to their tables by pretty young usherettes: Jeanne Caskey, Maxine Cummings, Zelma Goodman, Helen Hughes, Elizabeth Huntley, Marjorie Kemp, Catherine McKenzie, Wilma Tyson, Ruth Uderitz and Jean Woodruff.

Filene Estate For Charity

Of his $2,205,084 estate, the late Edward A. Filene, famous Boston merchant, left all but $125,000 to the Good Will Fund, Inc. Registrar of Probate Arthur W. Sullivan disclosed today.

The philanthropist's bequest to the Good Will Fund, a charitable and educational foundation, was in line with similar large gifts which he made shortly before his death last September.

Securities amounting to nearly $5,000,000 he had set aside for the Twentieth Century Fund of New York, which he established in 1919. Another $1,000,000 the merchant donated to the Credit Union National Extension Bureau.

Girl, 17, Wins Oratory Test

Mary Buckley, 17-year-old Cambridge Latin school senior, today was winner of the northeastern states championship in the public speaking contest sponsored by the American Legion, and next month will compete for the national title at Norman, Okla.

She won a unanimous decision of the judges over Ruth Mutterperl, of Tom's River high school, Tom's River, N. J. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Buckley of 28 Creighton street, Cambridge, and hopes to study law following her graduation from college.

Synthetic Cure For Depression

HARTFORD, Ct., May 21 (INS)—Substitution of synthetic materials for natural ones would put millions of people back to work.

This was the message left with 300 leading Connecticut industrialists today by Dr. William J. Hale, research chemist, of Midland, Mich., who chided the industrialists for not taxing "the sense to come in out of the rain" in their resistance to progress in the field of organic chemistry.

With 18,000,000 people on the dole, the only hope for national prosperity lay in chemistry, the organic chemical industry, Dr. Hale said.

There were three great outlets for unused farm products in the cellulose, vegetable oil and fats, and the gasoline field, he said.

Substitution of 10 per cent ethyl alcohol would put 1,500,000 men to work, use 30 million acres of land and cost $300,000,000, Dr. Hale said.

Twenty-one countries were going ahead in this field, and the United States and China were the only large countries lagging, he said.

20 Days In Coma

One of the most spectacular battles against death in Boston's medical annals was continued by doctors today with the life of Claire W. Robbins, 42, of the South End, who entered her 20th day of unconsciousness at City Hospital, as the stake.

She was nearly killed in a May Day accident at Dartmouth street and Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay. She suffered a fractured skull and compound fractures of both legs when hit by an automobile which, police said, was operated by Paul A. Werner of Highland road Wellesley.

50 More 'Hurley Men' Face Quiz

The legislative probe of appointments in the unemployment compensation hung fire today as Attorney Warren Patten prepared to produce evidence at Monday's hearing that 50 more employes in addition to 23 heard yesterday were Hurley pre-primary delegates in 1936.

All 23 of those who appeared at the probe yesterday admitted they had been 1936 delegates or had taken active parts in the Hurley campaign. All denied, however, that their present jobs had anything to do with the campaign.

McClennen-Herman Ceremony in Lincoln

By BETTY ALDEN

LOUISE HERMAN'S flair for individuality and femininity in clothes is noticeable in her wedding gown of fluffy white tulle . . . in which she exchanges marriage vows with Alan McClennen out in Lincoln this afternoon . . .

Her gown is made on bouffant lines with long sleeves and a tiny ruffle edging the hem . . . and a long tulle veil, falling from a crown of heirloom rose point lace, swirls about her petite figure . . . A bouquet of lilies of the valley and gardenias complete her outfit . . .

Dr. Edwards Woodbridge Herman of Lincoln is giving his daughter in marriage at the 2:30 ceremony in the Unitarian Church, with a reception immediately afterward at Woodridge, the Hermans' estate . . . Rev. Dana McLean Greeley is performing the ceremony before an altar banked with garden flowers . . .

The bride's debutante sister, Elizabeth Field Herman, and their cousin, Geraldine Field, are the bridal attendants . . . both wearing aquamarine starched chiffon gowns with veiled coronets of matching aqua color and bouquets of white roses . . . Geraldine was head pourer at the lovely tea dance which Dr. and Mrs. Herman gave in September, 1935, to introduce Louise to society . . .

At the reception, where the families and close friends of the bridal couple are greeting the newlyweds, Mrs. Herman receives in a gown of victory blue chiffon, the same material forming a crown in her natural straw hat . . . while Mrs. Edward Francis McClennen, mother of the bridegroom, is wearing gray chiffon with a large black hat and accessories . . .

Louise's going away suit is of aquamarine tweed with the same color trimming her natural straw hat . . . but she will soon change into more tomboyish clothes for cruising on Dr. Herman's sloop Betsy which will take the newlyweds on a leisurely honeymoon cruise around Cape Cod and Long Island Sound . . . After September 1 they will live in Cambridge . . .

The bridegroom has two brothers, Louis and Joshua McClennen, taking part in the wedding, the latter as best man and Louis heading the corps of ushers which also includes William Herman of Lincoln, Charles Edgar of Wellesley and Chester T. Lane of Alexandria, Va. . . .

Mt. Alvernia Folk To Visit Museum

Spring activities of Mr. Alvernia come to a close Tuesday afternoon with a visit to the Gardner Museum on the Fenway. A pleasant program of music will be followed with tea. The event concludes the series of benefits for the library fund of Mt. Alvernia Academy in Chestnut Hill.

Garden Tour Arranged for Wednesday

Garden openings continue to occupy the attention of flower lovers, with sixteen more show places in Milton, Dedham and Canton on the program of openings sponsored by the Noanet Garden Club next Wednesday.

Those who start their pilgrimage early will welcome the respite afforded by a box luncheon served in Mrs. Augustus Hemenway's Milton garden, where a bevy of post debs will act as waitresses. In their Brittany costumes, Olivia Ames, Elizabeth Motley, Halldis Prince, Elizabeth Hunnewell, Phyllis Howe and several others will serve a tasty picnic luncheon put up by the Brittany Coffee Shop.

Miss Amelia Peabody is running the plant sale, which will be an added feature of the day. Helping her will be Mrs. Henry Lyman, Louisa Hunnewell, Mrs. Lucian B. Taylor, Mrs. Leslie Soule, Mrs. James H. Perkins, 2d, and Mrs. Harold G. Arnold.

Mrs. George Dalton and Mrs. C. J. Lyman are assisting Mrs. Francis W. Bird with plans for the luncheon, and Miss Elizabeth Weld, who is in charge of tickets, will have the assistance of Miss Margaret Revere and Mrs. Robert Tappan.

Some of the beautiful estates to be visited are those of Mrs. Henry Lyman, treasurer of the club; Miss Katharine Homans, Mrs. George R. Agassiz, Mrs. Lawrence Hemenway, Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, Mrs. C. Minot Weld and Mrs. Theodore Brown.

Dealing With Unwelcome Attentions

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

When a girl wants a boy friend but acquires one who is distasteful to her should she speak straight from the shoulder! Here's a case where natural shyness should be immediately overcome for the sake of the girl's piece of mind.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We live in an awfully lonesome place in the country, and I never had any young friends, girls or boys, until about six months ago when we came to this city to live. I'm 23 and everybody says I'm pretty, but awfully green for my age. I got a job in the Five-and-Ten and liked mixing up with people, and seeing the crowds, and the stock in the store, very much.

On the same bus I take every morning going to work was a man, and after I had seen him five or six weeks he began talking to me. I didn't like him. He must be real old; I should say he's all of 40. He found out where I work and comes to the store and bothers me. Then he waits 'round and comes home on the same bus.

One night he followed me to my house and asked to come in. I refused. I always wanted a boy friend, but I don't like this one and want to get rid of him. What would you suggest?

SADIE.

[illegible]

There is no reason why a girl living in this country should be subjected to the unwelcome attentions of any man. Tell him positively that you want nothing to do with him, and if he persists, go to the Legal Aid Society, the Domestic Relations Court or the Family Court and have him bound over to keep the peace.

A bore who persists in tormenting a girl, in the face of her objections, is either mentally unbalanced or so stupid that delicacy is wasted in dealing with him.

Good Manners

JOINT GIFT

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please tell me if it is bad form for a couple, who, while not formally engaged now, expect to be in a few years, to give a joint wedding present to another young couple with whom they are very well acquainted?

The couple might send the wedding present jointly, since they know so intimately the couple who are being married, but it would be far better form for them to send separate presents.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

Eat Way to Slim Figure

One-Week Elimination Diet Available

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU'VE wondered how these astounding women of the international set or the cafe society crowd keep their wondrous figures that decorate the nation's rotogravures, it's not at all unlikely that they periodically follow a New York salon one-week-elimination diet, a famous secret you may learn yourself now!

It's not only this orchidaceous group that keeps lovely by going on a special fruit and vegetable diet which slims the figure, clears the complexion and body until it vibrates with magnetism like a plucked harp string!

Some of the stage celebrities who seem to have tapped the fountain of eternal youth know about it.

And loads of Hollywood stars have emigrated to New York especially in search of such an idea, and returned to the Coast triumphant. With this one little slip of paper tucked in their sleek fitted handbags they knew the figure problem was solved as long as they had to present their dear public with the vision of lithe planes and fluent curves!

You've probably heard vaguely of a diet which demands that you eat according to its rules at frequent intervals during the day. This is the authentic and original basis of the rumor! True, you don't get broiled mutton chops and thick steaks. But let us tell you—even three days of the diet will send your poundage plummeting downward.

Seven times a day, at stated hours, you take food or drink. It may be nothing more than cool water or fruit, but your body's system is kept in perfect running order through careful attention to its needs. Presumably it's fat that you want eliminated, and this diet does it!

One week is ideal if you've really a good-sized amount of plain, ordinary fat to lose. After you've done the deed, just one day a month on this diet will keep you satisfactorily slim and tone you up like a holiday in Aiken's pine lands.

To obtain your copy of this famous one-week-elimination diet, write Arline Gould, Boston Evening American, and inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THIS IS not intended to be a "what's the use?" department, but if you think that exercise, tennis and dancing alone keep a gal like Ginger Rogers in perfect shape, you're probably wrong. Arline Gould describes a reducing diet which is a standby of many delightful Hollywoodians.

Check Health of Pupils At Regular Examinations

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

MORE THAN one million school children in the city of New York recently observed Health Day. A day was set aside for teachers to stress the importance of health. That was a valuable school day.

In addition to teaching the advantages of following sensible health rules, various tests were made. The pupils were examined for defects in vision, hearing, height, weight, posture, etc. In this manner many minor defects that would otherwise have been overlooked were detected. The parents of each child in need of attention were sent a report telling the need of medical and dental treatment.

This procedure, if generally used, is capable of curbing many ailments and defects of childhood.

REGULAR EXAMINATIONS

Young children should be examined periodically.

In the larger schools, pupils who are found to suffer from permanent defects should be assigned to special classes.

All school authorities agree that many of the children who appear backward in their school work are usually those who suffer physical defects. It can be readily seen that if a child has poor vision or impaired hearing, it would be difficult for him to make the expected progress in his school work. Obviously, the underweight and nervous child will be subject to many disorders which will cause frequent absence from school and failure to progress.

If you or your children have not recently consulted the doctor, now is the time to take inventory of the health of your family. Do not overlook the importance of this matter. It is far better to guard against disease rather than to await it and then attempt the cure.

Sundaes May Be Made in Your Kitchen

By MARTHA LEE

All the talk about ice cream this week has made us sundae conscious—sundaes for Mondays and the rest of the week as well!

Sitting on a tall stool against a marbled counter and partaking of an ice cream sundae remains one of the pleasures of childhood which we never outgrow. Patronizing your nearest soda fountain is a recommended diversion—but you can indulge yourself at home too!

For your home-made sundaes you will need, of course, ice cream—purchased or made in your own refrigerator. You will want some sauce and some garnishes—a few nutmeats, cocoanut, cherries or the like to "sprinkle."

Bananas—so important to the really toothsome sundae—you will need too, so keep plenty in your fruit bowl and choose the fully ripe ones with the freckled peels for your sundaes.

Slice the bananas crosswise if you wish, or for "splits" or those vertical "splits" called "skyscrapers" slice them lengthwise. Some sundaes are improved with the addition of crushed bananas; for these just use a silver fork and crush them to consistency desired, or beat them with a rotary beater.

You don't need many recipes for sundaes; experiment with various flavors of sauces and ice creams, and remember that bananas go well with them all. But here's a new one that's a regular "honey"—and that's no slang:

HONEY BANANA SUNDAE

Arrange sliced ripe bananas on a serving of ice cream in a sauce dish. Pour diluted honey over all. Sprinkle top with rice krispies and serve. Diluted honey for sundae sauces is made by adding one part hot water to three parts honey. Use 2 to 3 tablespoons of diluted honey for each serving.

* * *

And here's a right royal combination sundae-split you can make at home:

BANANA ICE CREAM ROYAL

For each serving: Peel a fully-ripe banana and slice lengthwise into halves. Place cut side up in long dish (your "bone dishes" will serve). Top with one large tablespoon vanilla ice cream and one of chocolate ice cream. Cover vanilla ice cream with chocolate sauce and the chocolate ice cream with marshmallow sauce. Top with chopped nuts.

* * *

Talking about these sundaes got us off on another track—salads made with bananas. Here's one that is economical, easy to prepare and is excellent eating.

AT-HOME SALAD

3 ripe bananas, diced
½ cup diced pineapple (canned)
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups diced, cooked or canned shrimp
½ cup diced celery
Mayonnaise to moisten
Crisp lettuce

Mix bananas and pineapple together. (Pineapple prevents discoloration of bananas.) Add other ingredients and mix well. Serve on lettuce leaves. Garnish with chopped pimiento, green pepper or olives if desired.

Tips for Blondes

Spotting the cheeks with cherry red pigment does not help after the freshness of youth has departed and the skin has fallen into tiny pleats. A faint wild rose blush, placed high, does help. Lips must not be vividly painted, nor the pattern spread too wide. Dark damask shades are safer, raspberry is flattering sometimes.

Powder must not be lighter than the skin. If it carries a golden cast, the effect will be gratifying. There's a powder much like the color of a tea rose that is a happy selection. Nearly all blondes select powders that are too fair.

If eyelashes are light, they respond gratefully to a touch of mascara. A heavy crayon used on the eyebrows will make the face look brittle. Mascara can be used there with good effect; a dark brown is better than black.

The $500,000 Romance -:- By Lewis A. Brown

What Has Happened:

Since her graduation from high school, Marylin Keene has supported her mother and herself by working as stenographer and public accountant. One of her best clients is Sheridan Thorpe, an old-time friend.

He is the only eligible bachelor in the village and is much sought after by Flora Cunningham, a scheming young flapper, who is related to Colonel Proctor, a wealthy resident. Marylin, too, is related to him, but somewhat remotely.

Flora is jealous of the friendship between Marylin and Sherry. She boards with Mrs. Winslow, who aids her in schemes to ingratiate herself with both the Colonel and young Thorpe.

Marylin and Sherry attend a party at the hotel and Flora spreads the report that both drank heavily. The Colonel is disgusted and declares that he will change his will to deprive Marylin of the small annuity that was to come to her.

Sherry, enraged, runs down the gossip and finally convinces the Colonel that there was no wrongdoing.

Confronted by the evidence, Flora confesses that she must have been mistaken and tells the Colonel of her delight in finding "dear little Marylin" guiltless.

Inadvertently the Colonel discloses how much he intends to bequeath Mrs. Keene and Marylin.

Flora then plots to deprive Marylin of everything and to make Sherry her husband.

Sherry and Marylin are working until the early hours of morning on corporation reports.

Now Continue:

CHAPTER FIVE

It was three-thirty or nearer four when Marylin went to the door with Sherry. He kissed her, thanked her again for what she had done and left. Neither of them had noticed a car driving past the place as he was kissing her.

Flora and Mrs. Winslow were in that car. They were coming back from the city, a four-hour drive.

"Well, of all things!" Flora exclaimed. "Just wait until I tell Uncle Dave about this—and I have a witness now—Marylin Keene letting Sherry Thorne out of her home at four in the morning, and she in her night clothes—I'd like to hear her try to explain herself out of this mess!"

Flora was greatly excited over what she had seen.

"That's all right, Flora, go to it, but you know darn well that she wasn't in her night clothes—that was one of those big bungalow aprons," Mrs. Winslow observed.

Flora stopped her car and glared at Mrs. Winslow.

"All right. Of course I know it was a bungalow apron, but what of it? We can swear we saw Marylin Keene let Sherry Thorpe out of her home at four in the morning, that she was kissing him and that she was in her night clothes—we can do that, can't we?"

"Sure I'll do it," Mrs. Winslow agreed.

Despite their lack of sleep they were up by nine the next morning.

"I'm going to take you over with me," Flora told Mrs. Winslow.

They drove over and found Colonel Proctor in his favorite spot on the east terrace where he could see his beloved wild flower garden.

"How are you, dear Uncle Dave?" Flora greeted him. "Mrs. Winslow had to go down shopping, but I made her wait until I could run in and see how you were."

"I'm all right—that is, as all right as any man my age should be."

The old man greeted Mrs. Winslow pleasantly and then said, "You look a bit pale, Flora"—

"Poor Flora got quite a shock early this morning, Colonel Proctor," interrupted Mrs. Winslow. "We went to the city last night to the concert at Music Hall, and, of course, it was late—nearly four—when we got back. I told Flora you ought to know, but she said it might make you feel badly."

"Tut-tut, what is it, what is it?" the old man demanded. His humor wasn't of the best that morning.

"We got along just in time to see that sly little Marylin Keene letting Sherry Thorpe out of her house—four in the morning, mind you—and there she stood in the door clinging to him, and the brazen little thing was in her—night clothes!"

"I—I—it just shocked me terribly, Uncle Dave," Flora murmured faintly.

"Well, well, dammitt all—so there was plenty to that gossip after all—young Thorpe was covering her up—glad to know it, mighty glad to know it—you were right about her the first time, weren't you?"

FLORA RELATES GOSSIP

"I'm afraid I was, Uncle Dave," and Flora pulled a long face and a deep sigh.

"Tut-tut — bad, deucedly bad! This will cost the little minx a pretty penny — and that young Thorpe, also—I've no use for such people—run along and do your shopping—run along—no need to spread that story—it won't help us any."

"Of course not, Uncle Dave."

Colonel Proctor was greatly upset, so much so that Doctor Reynolds put him to bed when he called and, when Sherry Thorpe telephoned, the physician explained that he had better wait a day or so.

Flora lost no time, however, in spreading her story about Marylin and Sherry.

Within two days it came back to Colonel Proctor through his housekeeper. Flora swore to him that she had never whispered a word but that perhaps Mrs. Winslow had done so.

Not long after this, Sherry telephoned to the Colonel that the deal was through.

"Bring everything over," the Colonel ordered curtly, "I am not able to get down town."

The Colonel listened gravely as Sherry explained about the closing of the deal. He nodded when Sherry said, "We have credited the four hundred thousand and ninety dollars to your account."

Sherry told him how much he had charged for their services and added, "I allowed Miss Keene $30 for her work."

The old man flared up then.

"I know why you are so generous with her—I know all about it—I'm going to change my will—and I don't want to deal with you any more—I know about your coming out of her house, she letting you out at daylight—she in her night-clothes, the hussy—"

"That's enough of crazy talk from you, Colonel Proctor," Sherry shouted at him, "I'll find out where that gossip started, and I'll sue everyone who repeated it, including you, if you have repeated it."

"You can't cover it up again—send your father over with my will—and get out!"

Sherry went. When he came back he had the Colonel's will. He also had Marylin's mother, his father, Miss Tuttle and a few others with him.

It took no more than 10 minutes to make old Colonel Proctor understand that Flora Cunningham had started the gossip, not only this time but on the previous occasion.

Soon after all had gone except Sherry, Flora drove over.

"Not now," the Colonel said as Flora started to go into the library.

FLORA CELEBRATES

One of the servants confided in her that he was changing his will. Flora went outside and had a good laugh. Things were working out beautifully—he was cutting the Keenes out entirely as a result of what she had told him.

She even approached Sherry as he came out.

"Can't talk, but why worry?" Sherry said, managing to keep a poker face.

When Flora saw the Colonel she was surprised at his condition. She hadn't seen him looking so badly for a long while.

The old man merely said, "Too much business . . . changed the will a trifle . . . I'll be all right tomorrow."

She called every day for two weeks.

And then, one morning when she called on the Colonel, Doctor Reynolds met her at the door. "He just passed on," the doctor told her.

"How shocking! Oh, what shall I do?" Flora cried, and while it was a fairly creditable bit of acting, she didn't fool Doctor Reynolds for a moment . . .

There was a notable funeral as benefitted the leading citizen of Westlands.

Marylin and her mother were at the church, but Flora did no more than glance haughtily in their direction and then snub them.

Two days passed. Mrs. Winslow began to tell Flora that she ought to ask Thorpe & Thorpe about the will.

Then Sherry Thorpe called on Flora.

"Colonel Proctor," he said, coming directly to the point, "left a rather remarkable will.

"He wants you to go with me to the country and fill this little basket with thistledown!"

"Of all silly things. But of course I'll go, Sherry."

"Naturally—it isn't much of a task to fill a basket with thistledown—this basket won't hold more than two quarts."

They drove out through the country until they came to an extensive hillside pasture.

AN IMPOSSIBLE TASK

"It was sweet of you to hunt this up first, Sherry," Flora said.

"Thanks—no need to waste time. Let's go."

He took her into the pasture. There were hundreds of great thistles there, most of them were through blooming, and the thistle down remained in tufts, ready for the first strong wind to open them.

"I can't help you; go ahead," Sherry said.

Diligently, Flora picked off the brownish tufts of thistledown that would spread white and silky when opened. She filled the basket.

"There you are, Sherry," she said.

"Not quite. We are to ride slowly along the roadside and you are to scatter them."

"Of all things—Oh, I see, he wants to propagate or help plant more wildflowers like thistles. Well, here goes."

Sherry drove the car slowly. Flora scattered the fluffy thistledown far and wide. A playful breeze fluttered them here and there over a wide area, across fences, into yards, into streams—all about.

"Now, Miss Cunningham, we will go back. You are to pick up every bit of thistledown you scattered and put it back where you got it on the thistles."

"You're crazy, Sherry!"

"I am not. It is in the will!"

"But it can't be done—it's beyond human power to do that!"

"I know it—Colonel Proctor knew it when he dictated these directions—if you fail to recover every bit of thistledown you have just scattered and replace it, you are to forfeit his estate with the exception of $500—the balance goes to Marylin Keene!"

"Is this true?" Flora gasped

She was assured.

"He was crazy—I can break that will anywhere!" Flora screamed.

"Try it—but come back to the old estate first," and Sherry said no more until they got back to the late Colonel's library. Marylin and her mother were there and servants and trustees of the library and a few others.

"The will reads," Sherry said, picking it up and reading:

"Inasmuch as Flora Cunningham, distantly related, has maliciously and wilfully spread evil gossip about an innocent girl, regardless of how much other gossip she may have spread, I will that she pluck, scatter and then pick up and accurately replace two full quarts of thistledown. I know quite well that this is humanly impossible. I have ordered this to be done in hopes that it will demonstrate to Flora Cunningham the wickedness of gossip—make her see that evil tales once told can never be retracted nor the damage wholly repaired.

"Your share, Miss Cunningham," Sherry finished, handing her a check for five hundred dollars.

"I'll sue!" Flora screamed.

But she never did sue, she disappeared soon after this, and so she missed the wedding of Marylin and Sherry.

THE END.

"NOW, MISS CUNNINGHAM, YOU ARE TO PICK UP EVERY BIT OF THISTLEDOWN YOU SCATTERED AND PUT IT BACK WHERE YOU GOT IT ON THE THISTLES."

SHERRY TELLS FLORA of her Uncle's strange will. "Now, Miss Cunningham," he said, "you are to pick up every bit of thistledown you scattered and put it back where you got in on the thistles."

Letters for All Occasions

Faithfully, Mary answers the Help Wanted advertisements—but never gets a reply. "What's wrong with my letters?" she worries.

Nothing that a few touches wouldn't set right. Take the colorless note she's started:

"I saw your ad in today's paper.

"I was assistant bookkeeper for the Jones Box Company one year. I kept all the books for the Magno Radio Store last year."

Away with that cheap error—"ad" for advertisement. Break up that row of sentences starting with "I." Talk right at the start about the job which gave you the type of experience the employer is asking for.

"I am answering your advertisement for a bookkeeper.

"At the Magno Radio Store, where I worked from April, 1937, to May, 1938, I kept a complete set of books. Half the sales were on the installment plan—giving me the kind of experience you want.

"I have studied accounting—"

There—the letter starts with snap. Details about other jobs, education and age follow.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Memo to the Managing Editor:

WITH OUR mutual indulgence, seeing as how we both dislike committing this space to the discussion of one topic, I venture today to offer a letter from Marty Owens in the hope that you find it as interesting as it seemed to me . . . There are two chief reasons for treating Mr. Owens' missive with more consideration and space than an ordinary letter from "a constant reader."

George Holland

A score or so of years ago, Mr. Owens enlisted in a random-hops crew of strollers which included Robert Emmett Sherwood, who wrote "Idiot's Delight", "The Petrified Forest", "The Road to Rome", "Reunion in Vienna" and other gems of the period history won't let you forget, and Dan McGrath, who has come to respect us as first-class pieces of playwriting.

Among the high spirits who met their first man-of-the-world in the person of the dapper Mr. Owens were Robert Benchley, a good country humorist . . . Ned Mahan, who ran through Ivy League football defenses with his knees meeting his chin . . . Dwight Deere Wiman, who produced "I Married An Angel", and Charles E. Brickley, who didn't indulge in beer but who defeated Yale single-handed on one or two occasions by plunking a football through the sky-zone of a pair of goal-posts.

There were others, including the late beloved Ted Gillespie, the clever Dr. Edmund Tobin, and the talented Robert Brassil Fitzgerald, whose father was superintendent of schools in Cambridge for many years . . . Sherwood, Benchley, Mahan and Brickley represented Harvard; Gillespie, Tobin, Fitzgerald and your signatory represented Boston College . . . Mr. Owens' vineyard in those days (1915 to '17 inclusive) was Dan McGrath's famous "The Nip" on Tremont street.

Harvard and B. C. Didn't Meet:

Mr. Owens was one of the mixologists working for Mr. McGrath, and Pete Kenney was another estimable expert in the art of squeezing the correct amount of lime in a lime-and-lemonade . . . In those days, Harvard and Boston College did not meet in the gridiron, no more than they do now . . . But among the assorted individuals listed above there was a consanguinity which Mr. Owens did much to further.

Well, in 20-odd years, your earnest reporter has not seen hide nor hair of Mr. Owens, and when a letter reached this desk signed with his official scrawl it was a pleasant surprise . . . So please let this long preamble pass for one of the reasons for printing a letter from Mr. Owens . . . And another reason is that the Boston bartenders are celebrating on Monday night at the Copley-Plaza their 50th anniversary of becoming an organization . . . Which makes it all timely.

Exceptions Are Taken:

Then again it is a famous scribbler who does not work for us who bears the brunt of Mr. Owens' rebuff in the letter which follows:

"Dear George, Reading Mr. So-and-So's article on the oldtime bartender, his booze-ology is sadly remiss. In every phase of his article there is nothing pertaining to the qualification of the oldtime bartender."

So I quote from the "article" referred to by Mr. Owens a paragraph he encircles as something which meets with his consummate disapproval . . . Ergo: "I shudder to think what might have happened in my saloon days to anyone who had asked a bartender for a pink lady" . . .

And we continue with Mr. Owens' letter:

"Qualifications for a bartender were different in my salad days . . . First of all, an applicant would have to be a young man of good reputation, recommended to the owner of the bar, club, hotel or restaurant by a very close friend of the bartender working there . . . Then for a year he would be a bar porter . . . scrubbing sinks, floors, toilets, mirrors, glasses, etc. . . . For that he would receive from $8 to $10 a week . . .

Then and Now:

"He was required to be well-groomed as to teeth, nails and hair and at no time was he allowed to smoke a cigarette behind the bar . . . Then he would be allowed to make an application for the bartenders' union with the endorsement of the man he worked for and three other members of the union . . .

"Mr. So and So mentions some drinks as fancy drinks which were so simple to concoct that we used them to train bar-boys . . . In the old days, a 'Tom Collins' was a painstakingly mixed drink . . . Today it is nothing more than a 'gin fizz' with decorations . . . Many a grand old popular drink has failed to make a comeback since repeal . . . Some of our standbys that you seldom or never hear called for these days are the whiskey, bronx, lone tree, HPW, perfect, Bacardi daiquiri, Rob Roy Mamie Taylor, Ramson cooler cocktails, the rum punches, the champagne cup, and such fizzes as the Ramus, New Orleans, strawberry and pink lady.

"There is a handlebar mustache and apron cut to your size awaiting you Monday night at the Copley Plaza . . . I would like very much to renew a favorite friendship and will devote myself to mixing at least one of each drink I have mentioned as relics of the days we used to know.

"Also, you should taste again a Blue Moon, a Fog Horn, a Corpse Revere, a Killarney Rose, and a First Night . . . Regards, Marty Owen."

You will undoubtedly be pleased to know that I have spurned Mr. Owens' cordial invitation to be present Monday night at the 50th Anniversary of the Bartenders' Union at the Copley Plaza.

Allan Jones to Play Musical Cowboy

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, May 21—The influence of Roy Rogers in "Under Western Stars" was bound to be felt in Hollywood. This Western, first released in Dallas, Texas, was so good that Republic called it in and decided to give it exploitation with its players accompanying it on a personal appearance tour.

M-G-M will lose no time in finding a similar Western in which Allan Jones can play a musical cowboy and sing appropriate swinging Western tunes.

One of the week's interesting highlights was the arrival of Nazimova in Hollywood to coach Isa Miranda in "Zaza." Nazimova, who played "Zaza" in her native Russia, and who had such a following on the American stage, has no ambitions to return to the screen. I saw Miranda the day Nazimova arrived in town. I have been hoping that 20th Century-Fox would do something with Phyllis Brooks who could so easily play the light gay roles of comedy that made Constance Talmadge famous some years ago. Darryl Zanuck has been looking for just such a story, and in the meantime it is interesting to know that Phyllis has the romantic lead in the Kits Brothers' newest bit of film excitement, "Straight, Place and Show."

Snapshots of Hollywood

Katherine De Mille and Anthony Quinn have made a date with the stork; Janet Gaynor moves to the beach this week; Virginia Field and Owen Davis, Jr., at a ringside seat at the Polar Palace. The Hollywood crowd is flocking to the ice carnival night after night. Loretta Young has seen "Robin Hood" several times—she loved it so well. Each time with Gordon Oliver.

Martha Raye scrambled eggs, dozen eggs, by actual count, for a scene in "Give Me a Sailor" before she got a good take; Mary Brian and Ken Murray spent the evening dancing to Buddy Rogers' swing band at the Palomar; Rochelle Hudson dining with Sidney Burrup at the Derby and again we are reminded how pretty she is. Gracie Allen went in to the Victor Hugo kitchen and did a little cooking, but we hear tell she refused to eat her own concoction. Hanna Ladeli just gave Mary a new car and a summer fur coat for her birthday; Aileen Pringle [illegible] sweetheart; says she's trying to shape a comeback—she only wants to do the thing she knows how to do best—act; Slicker, the seal, working in "Spawn of the North," has two standings and four doubles, which is more than most stars rate. Submarine Peril!

The Editor Says: Nelson Harding's imaginative cartoon interests all Americans, particularly New England Americans.

We are wasting our time decorating piers for a gala celebration of National Maritime Day if we continue to ignore the dangerous "labor relations" amendment to the pending Merchant Marine Bill.

Here is a worse than useless piece of legislation that disregards common sense and experience and actually CLEARS THE WAY for the most radical of elements to seize COMPLETE CONTROL of the commercial fleets that fly the American flag.

It rejects the wisdom of Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, former chairman of the Maritime Commission, who advised Congress it would be folly to provide for a big Navy without also providing an ADEQUATE Merchant Marine as its necessary auxiliary.

It accepts the "advice" of Secretary Perkins, who at a time when mutinies at sea and sitdowns ashore were plunging our shipping companies into bankruptcy chose to pursue a policy which amounted to doing nothing.

Our Senators whom we have elected to represent us in Washington should scrap the perilous "labor relations" amendment.

Our Representatives should also oppose it. To pass it would be to torpedo the entire patriotic purpose of the Merchant Marine Bill and to place the government's blessing on LABOR ANARCHY.

"HOME, SWEET HOME" will have new meaning and beauty up there in North Bay, Ontario, when Papa Oliva, Mama, the quins and the seven other little Dionnes go to live under one roof as one family.

Undoubtedly, isolation of the five doll-like sisters was necessary. Their frail lives could not be endangered by exposure to contagion—not even to the mild illnesses that commonly afflict members of the average household.

Consequently Dr. Dafoe's marvelous skill and judgment which kept these rarest of children alive and sustained them during the uncertain period of infancy cannot be too highly praised. His success will go down in medical history as one of the foremost achievements of all time.

Now, however, the quins are four years of age. They are healthy and normal. Rightly, therefore, the world hails the wise decision that ends parental resentment, heralds a needed spirit of cooperation, and promises to make the Dionne home not only one of Canada's biggest, but also Canada's happiest.

BITING TONGUES receive deserved condemnation in the State Public Works Department, where Commissioner William F. Callahan has commanded all employes to be courteous or to look for work elsewhere.

Commissioner Callahan is right. This is still a democracy. The public is still boss. And officials and their appointees are still the people's servants. Insults, brusk manners and kindred incivilities have no place, and cannot be tolerated.

Fortunately, most men and women in the government service are polite, refined and good to know. It is the cantankerous minority that sours the atmosphere and causes the trouble.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, May 21

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT certainly seems to be entering upon the most perilous phase of his entire political career.

What he appears to be endeavoring to do is to save the New Deal at the expense of the Democratic party.

It would be a mistake to assume that administration punishment of recalcitrants is confined to the South, or even to Southern Senators.

It would not be surprising to see the next manifestation of White House resentment in Iowa, where Senator Guy M. Gillette is coming up for re-election this year.

The Senate cloakroom grapevine has it that Gillette is to find himself opposed by a New Deal pet, despite his vote for the President's Reorganization bill.

• • •

SENATORS are waiting to see now what will happen to Senator Bennett Clark in Missouri. In Maryland Senator Tydings was shrewd enough to jump the gun, and Administration efforts to get an opponent into the field against him thus far have failed although some of the labor bill forgetting these efforts refer time to time to the American system of politics.

It is well known by everybody that young Thomas Corcoran, the White House fair-haired boy, has been arming at lowa for it.

But now it is said that Tommy's tracks have been discovered all over certain Southern states where New Deal resentment will be shown in a big way against "renegade Senators who have revealed a tendency to get off the reservation from time to time."

• • •

THE strategy which led to the eleventh hour throwing last week upon the CIO candidate for Governor in Pennsylvania is said to have had its origin in Mr. Corcoran's brain, with an assist from Sen. Jimmy the prominent friend of Marines.

Now, if the President proposes to make an out-and-out political alliance with John L. Lewis, to supplant the existing working agreement, he is going to play directly into the hands of conservative Democratic politicians.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Do you long for some of the sweet amenities of love-making—the tender nothings, the gallantries—the frills? Are you tired of being unceremoniously grabbed and kissed, in the caveman manner?

Certainly, the modern romance DOES lack the element of "suspense." There is no doubt in your mind what a modern lover means – if he means anything. Men have been for so long emulating the caveman, under the impression that this pre-historic Wonder Boy was a roughneck, who did his wooing with a grunt and a club, that they'll be surprised and shocked to learn of their mistake.

But it's all over now, and we women can take heart of cheer. For the archeologists have discovered uncontrovertible proofs that the caveman was NOT a roughneck at all, but a tender, charming Romeo, who courted his lady with poetry and flowers, and not with a clout on the head.

He was not brutal and masterful, but tender and timid and flattering.

What of Today, Tomorrow?

Ability Gets the Job, Says Charles F. Adams

If college graduates of 1938 are facing a difficult task in feeling out a foothold in business, in industry or in the professions—what of youth that does not possess a college degree?

Today one of the best-grounded New England business men, Charles F. Adams, gives his own views on this question.

His has been a long and varied experience in the handling of men, all types of men, and his answer is interesting.

By PAUL WHELTON

Boston Evening American Staff Writer

For some men and women a college education is an advantage in business!

For others it is a decided handicap in a business way!

This is the view, drawn from his wealth of experience, by Charles F. Adams, treasurer and director of First National Stores, Inc.; director of the Boston Professional Hockey Association, director in the New England Council and affiliated with various other interests.

Encouraging is the comment of this New England business leader to the youth who is starting out toward the making of a career and who has not had opportunity to attend college.

"I HAVE SEEN NO INDICATION IN MY EXPERIENCE THAT A COLLEGE GRADUATE MAKES A BETTER EMPLOYE THAN A MAN WITHOUT A DEGREE, PROVIDED THAT THE MAN WITHOUT A DEGREE HAS BEEN FAIRLY WELL EDUCATED SAY A GRADUATE FROM A HIGH SCHOOL OR BUSINESS TRAINING INSTITUTION," he says.

C. F. Adams

"Given a fair or excellent education is not the principal qualification to be successful in business.

"Often one who is highly educated has reached an age of 29 or more years and expects an opportunity to start well up the ladder and at a rate of compensation which is prohibitive for one with no practical experience.

"The younger man with a fair education is very willing to start at the bottom, and if either the fairly educated or the highly educated individual does not have what-it-takes, neither can hope to get very far.

"WHAT-IT-TAKES INTERPRETED, MEANS TO DO THE SMALL JOBS, SEEMINGLY UNIMPORTANT, OVER A SUBSTANTIAL PERIOD OF TIME, AND ANY EMPLOYER THAT HAS THE NECESSARY JUDGMENT TO BE A SUCCESS IN BUSINESS SOON REALIZES AND RECOGNIZES THIS STICKTUITIVENESS AND WILLINGNESS TO DO WHAT ONE IS ASKED TO DO.

"This what-it-takes and stick-tuitiveness is a trait which may be developed, but which, usually, is born in the man.

"Again, a well-educated man will proceed more quickly than one with a lesser education, or little or no education at all.

"It is necessary, in fact vital, that this trait be developed if not already possessed.

"AS HAS BEEN PARTICULARLY IN EVIDENCE, IN RECENT YEARS AT LEAST, A SUBSTANTIAL PORTION OF THE HIGHLY EDUCATED MEN BECOME IDEALISTS — AND FROM THE AMERICAN WAY, AS WE UNDERSTAND IT, ARE NOT SOUND IN THE FUNDAMENTALS NECESSARY TO SUCCEED IN BUSINESS.

"IT ALL DEPENDS ON NATURAL ABILITY, PERSISTENCE AND—WHAT I HAVE SAID ALREADY—WHAT-IT-TAKES."

As against the less difficult way of making a contact in search of a job a friend of a friend of a friend, Charles F. Adams recommends, for general success, the personal effort, unaided.

"MANY POSITIONS UNFORTUNATELY, ARE SECURED BY 'PULL,'" HE SAYS, "BUT 'PULL' DOES NOT, BY ANY MEANS, INDICATE FUTURE SUCCESS, HOWEVER IT DOES FURNISH AN OPPORTUNITY.

"Letters from friends, particularly if the friend is well acquainted and honest in his representations of the individual's ability and character, and is not writing the letter for sentimental reasons, often helps.

"Such a letter, at least, is very apt to secure an audience, but generally speaking, wearing out shoe leather or one's personal efforts, gets the most jobs.

"As for qualifications looked for in a job applicant, education – a fair one – is necessary (except in an ordinary laborer's position).

"Then there are general appearance, apparent intelligence and manner.

"SHIFTY, EVASIVE REPLIES, WITH MORE OR LESS INDEFINITE ANSWERS, SURELY PLACE THE APPLICANT UNDER A SERIOUS HANDICAP.

"A successful employment manager, by intuition and in other ways inexplainable, arrives at his conclusions.

Despite present conditions, promotion opportunities in business are as numerous as ever, Adams believes, but one first must get the job to be in line for promotions.

"A YOUNG AND GROWING BUSINESS, CAPABLY MANAGED, IS BOUND TO EMPLOY ADDITIONAL WORKERS AND ADD TO THE NUMBER.

"In an old established business, many additional workers, obviously, are not required. The turnovers or replacements depend entirely upon those who are either discharged, leave their jobs or, for some reason, it is decided to make a change.

"The interests with which I am connected, being established businesses operated for a number of years, are, naturally, employing less new help than a few years ago.

"BUT OPPORTUNITIES FOR PROMOTION ARE JUST AS NUMEROUS AS AT ANY TIME IN THE PAST."

Aviation in New England! What is it today? What will it be tomorrow? How can it enrich our people and increase their happiness? Beginning Monday, outstanding New England men will discuss these questions on this page.

Wallace's Ire -:-

By Hugh S. Johnson

WASHINGTON Secretary Wallace is a [illegible] man war with the Supreme Court. He says it is trying to take over the rule making and regulatory duties of the Executive. He considers that a year ago the court was attempting to determine legislative policy, got licked, retreated and is now attacking bureaucracy on another front.

The Secretary's rage was roused by a remark of the Chief Justice that bureaucratic control must be exercised with at least rudimentary justice. His present complaint is that delays imposed on bureaus by tests in the courts of the Constitutionality of their actions hamper democratic government.

General Johnson

On the same day, Chairman Madden of the National Labor Relations Board, which has been under considerable fire for prejudiced and arbitrary and unfair administration, made a somewhat similar complaint.

Mr. Wallace, by virtue of his Agricultural Act, has a range of bureaucratic power [illegible] never before imagined outside of the dictatorships. It is understandable that he resents any interference, whether by the Supreme Court or otherwise. A similar state of mind can be imagined in Mr. Madden.

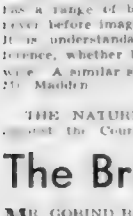
It is a pure plea for one man government or to use a current four-dollar word "totalitarianism" which means that, when anybody [illegible] the true democracy of the [illegible] Mr. Wallace, the answer is: [illegible] and like it—see!"

The Brighter Side -:- By Damon Runyon

MR. GOBIND BEHARI LAL, International News Service's eminent science editor, reports on a startling discovery of several Boston physicians that the shape of the head markedly influences the occurrences of sinus and other nasal infections.

Now this is most interesting, but we are wondering if medical science is also familiar with certain other facts about the shape of the head that are well known to the general public. For instance in connection with stud poker playing.



Damon Runyon

It is common knowledge among stud poker players that you can always tell the shape of the head by the size of the stack. A stud poker player is inclined to keep his hat on his head while playing, thus concealing the contour of his conk. However, an expert needs just one peek at the size of the player's stack of chips to give an accurate description of the hidden head.

If the stack is higher than a cat's back, the expert will bet you that the player's head is neatly proportioned and as near to normal as it is possible for a card player's head to come. On the other hand, if the stack is a mere nubbin, then the expert knows that the head probably has the aspect of a hen's egg stood on end, the smaller end uppermost.

We do not know who first made this scientific discovery. Some say it was Mr. Andrew Jackson before he became President of the United States.

WE HAVE been a firm believer in the Jacksonian theory for about 15 years. Up to that time we had been an ardent stud poker player, but our stack of checks invariably dwindled [illegible] a mere shadow no matter how often we [illegible] it.

We could account for this [illegible] on the ground of bad luck with, perhaps an occasional excusable error of judgment in thinking the other bloke might be trying to [illegible] on us, until one night we thought of Mr. Jackson's idea. Then we stepped to a mirror removed our hat and saw what he meant. Our noggin is not shaped to a large stack.

At least it is not so shaped for stud poker, though it might fit into another [illegible] known as chemin de fer.

WE attach some importance to the shape of the head among prize fighters. We think that a fighter should have a small round head with a brief brow. Our theory is that a tall brow indicates brains. A fighter with brains might start to think and his first thought might be:

"What am I doing in here fighting."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE [illegible]

FOUR young men [illegible] graduate [illegible] the [illegible] college [illegible]

Want the job?

Here's the [illegible] WE WANT TO DO?'

For example—a [illegible] college career, [illegible] votes himself to the [illegible] ers and sisters. What [illegible]

Is he a saint, or [illegible] he wants to do?

DID HE BRAVELY [illegible] TION TO BE SELFISH [illegible] FOREVER THAT GRIM SACRIFICE [illegible] SELF-DEVELOPMENT?

Then does he, or does he not [illegible] for his generous deeds?

Elsie Robinson

ANOTHER example. A [illegible] by a deadly epidemic. A [illegible] and loved ones, isolates himself in the danger zone, labors there, night and day, until he, too, is stricken down.

Is [illegible] hero or is he stupid, [illegible] the law of his own nature?

In other words, is he a [illegible] being SELFISH?

Are we always [illegible] as we [illegible] our GOOD DEEDS as in our BAD DEEDS?

DO WE ALWAYS DO THE THINGS WE WANT TO DO?

"That's absurd," you say. "Often I do things I don't want to do. Often I am tempted and yet I resist the temptation."

But do you really resist the temptation or do you do the thing you secretly desire to do?

And being what you are [illegible] you have done anything else?

WHAT leads on to another [illegible]

IS THERE SUCH A THING AS A FREE WILL?

Have we the power [illegible] or must we go what we're shaped to do?

A disturbing question, isn't it? It [illegible] these four young men. Two of them said [illegible] we can, that what we want to do. Two of them denied that and said we had to struggle between good and evil and deserved a lot of credit when we chose the finer things.

Then the fight was on. Personally I [illegible] of these young men were very, very angry.

You'll be angry, too, if you [illegible] question. Human beings have been getting angry over such questions since the world began. But that is how and why the human brain has grown.

OUR BRAINS GROW BY ASKING QUESTIONS. BY THINKING ABOUT EVERYTHING IN LIFE EVEN THE SIMPLEST THINGS, BY TAKING NOTHING FOR GRANTED, BY DOUBTING AND QUESTIONING AND KEEPING AN OPEN MIND TO FIND THE TRUTH.

Go on; try to answer [illegible]

See how hard it is to answer!

Get mad about it!

Discover how little you really know about yourself or anyone else.

You'll be surprised! And you'll [illegible]

But surprise and humility are the BEGINNING of wisdom.

FLORIDA is one of the most [illegible] permanent States in the [illegible] Union. It is different from California.

The most important city in Florida is Miami. The population of Florida consists of tourists on the lam from former-fitting blizzards.

Palm Beach is the most stylish city and everybody lives there who cannot afford it.

Florida is called the Sunshine State because of Lake Okeechobee, Lake Istokpoga, Lake Hatchineha, the Caloosahatchee River and Okefinokee Swamp. When you want to go anywhere in Florida you first have to go back to college for four years.

All Trailers are advised to see Florida, which is shaped like a peninsula and has a coastline of eleven hundred and fifty miles. This State has a very fine climate subject to change without notice. It was here that Ponce de Leon searched for the Fountain of Youth whose waters mixed so well with Scotch. He was appointed Adelantado in 1521, when he was wounded by the Indians right in the middle of Florida's first real estate boom.

The pay crop of Florida consists of grapefruit, oranges and tropical fruit. A grapefruit is something you buy wholesale and [illegible]

Travelers will find beautiful parking spaces all over Florida. Accommodations are made for both night and water. Also gas and service. It is all the comforts of home with a tent axle.

A winter in the Sunshine State is something to remember long after you have spent the ten days [illegible] condition is complete when a [illegible] the South Florida should not be confused with California. It can be [illegible] by rail. At present it is suffering from an [illegible] of improvements.

NOTE Make coast line read [illegible] and seven hundred and fifty-six miles. That's quite some difference from eleven hundred and fifty miles in fifth paragraph. But when we wrote that the tide has gone out.

St. Augustine the oldest European city in the United States, was founded in 1565. It has flaunted the Spanish, French, British, Confederate and American flags. In three hundred years it has changed hands fourteen times.

But those were the good old days. They will be back tomorrow.

Dry Goods Sales Show Good Gain

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP) Cotton gray goods demand this week was steady and sales were well in excess of present curtailed [illegible] output.

Sales of standard cloths for apparel purposes, most active items in print cloths, ran into several million yards. Sheetings sold in moderate amounts at firm prices. Heavy goods were a little more active and steady. Combed goods were quiet with values remaining steady.

Finished cotton goods improved. Percales sold in small lots for fall. Tubings were in better demand and broads showed more interest [illegible] clothing fabrics.

Dungarees moved well. Buyers found it difficult to obtain desired [illegible] fabrics for slack trousers and summer suits.

Rayon yarn sold in fair-sized [illegible] and demand for staple [illegible] was brisk. Sales of rayon [illegible] were light but spun rayons showed promise of activity. Raw [illegible] was fairly steady. Silk fabrics [illegible] saw best full fashioned hosiery [illegible] active.

Demand for wool goods picked up as buyers began to cover on fall sheetings. Mills continued to operate around 30 per cent of capacity. Underwear sold in fair volume while blankets were slow.

New Exchange Control Urged

NEW YORK, May 21 (INS) — Chairman William O. Douglas of the Securities and Exchange Commission proposed establishment of a trust company to assume all bank-ing and custodial functions for members of the New York Stock Exchange.

During an address before the associa-tion of stock exchange firms here, [illegible] the recent reorganization of the exchange as a "joint achievement" of the exchange itself and the SEC.

Referring to the Richard Whitney scandal, without mentioning the name of the exchange's former president, Douglas said "the shades of the recent disregard of the customers' property still haunt financial districts."

Haney Warns On Harmful Expansions

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of Economics, New York University)

NEW YORK, May 21 — My question box this week turns out to be a California affair.

Los Angeles asks: "Why do manufacturers of steel, shoes, etc expand plant and output when there is overproduction? Shouldn't they get together and limit production to needs?"

Answer: Sometimes mistakes are made. The worst ones are the futile attempts to make work for laborers by [illegible] plants that ought to be closed down or [illegible] ing new equipment for the sake of stimulating [illegible] goods [illegible] (It would be better and cheaper to give direct relief.)

Aside from this sort of thing, however, most of the increase comes from an effort to get lower costs per unit of product. If goods can be made cheaper by producing in large volume, or by using new equipment, they can be sold cheaper.

The hope is that then more can be sold, so that a small profit per unit may give a large total profit.

The reasons against [illegible] proposal are (1) [illegible] is monopoly, and (2) "needs" are too vague.

What are needs? Do we all "need" automobiles, radios "modern" bathrooms etc etc? How many pairs of shoes has each individual need?

You see what a mess [illegible] and why [illegible] the [illegible] things. Furthermore, if prices are low, we can have many more things than when prices are high. If a business man or the government restricts output and charges high prices we [illegible] have [illegible]

* * *

Another Los Angeles reader says: "How will the final crash and loss of government credit affect small savings?"

Answer: Such a condition, when it eventually comes, might not cause loss in the number of dollars owned. But it would cause real loss in their purchasing power.

If you have $5000 saved, you might have the same amount in five years. But if meanwhile prices double, your purchasing power would be only half, or $2500.

Furthermore, there would be at least serious danger that your saved dollars would actually be lost through the failure of some business or financial institution.

Blames Political Action For Present Depression

Special to Boston Evening American

[illegible]

"Ignorance of economic laws and lack of understanding of the consequences of their own acts have been peculiarly characteristic of political leaders in recent years and yet governments are continually taking over the functions of private enterprises and of economic law itself.

"There are three general methods of recovery from any depression:

"The method by which we all tighten our belts from the national government down to the individual, reduce expenses, and make both ends meet all the way through.

"Secondly, a share the wealth method, in which those who have no work are kept out of the earnings of those who are working.

"Under the third method, national, state, local government, and individuals pile up debts to the breaking point and then wipe them all out by uncontrolled inflation.

"Mr. Roosevelt adopted the second and third method and he is adhering to the same method to bring us out of our present depression."

MARITIME DAY

May 22, 1938

Commemorating Maritime Industrial Progress

A great harbor is the natural focus of business; and the greater the hinterland that it serves, the greater its value to the country. In all the length of the Atlantic Coast there is no better or more favorably situated harbor than that of the Port of Boston. No other great city is so close to the Atlantic, with such a well protected haven for its shipping. The earliest settlers discovered this, and that is why Boston and New England came into being; for the first settlement of all the six New England States was through or from Boston.

TAXES! TAXES! TAXES!

"TAX" comes from the Latin, tangere, which means to touch. The average workingman who applauds any tax that touches those of a higher income than himself fails to realize he is also touched through unseen taxes.

Those unseen taxes touch the average workingman and his family proportionately heavier than those of higher income.

The average workingman, whether he likes it or not, works approximately 10 weeks in each year for the government.

MR. BOSTON

Robert Gets One More Bad Break | Seconds Often Lose Heads

By JACK CONWAY

YVON ROBERT, who lost his chance to regain his lost world's heavyweight wrestling championship when Eddie Quinn took a punch at Referee Ted Tonneman during the progress of the Frenchman's bout with Steve Casey, has certainly been pursued by his share of hard luck.

Mr. Boston

When Robert won the title by defeating Jim O'Mahony in a tussle in Montreal, it looked as if he would make a fortune. A few months later Yvon suffered a broken ankle during a bout with Cliff Olsen in Washington and was out of action for six months.

Robert next had his chances broken when promotion of the championship for his return to wrestling was negotiated. The American Wrestling Association, which is Robert's backer, when it started him on the championship for his return to wrestling, matched him with Louis Thesz, leaving the latter's victory over Everett Marshall.

The Garden deserves the credit for the climax. In the contract Robert signed, Eddie Quinn was manager. Quinn committed a flagrant infraction of the rules when he entered the ring and struck a police at Referee Tonneman, because the latter had just awarded Casey the match. Quinn thought it was a foul in favor of the Frenchman.

Under the usual interpretation of the rules of wrestling and boxing, a contestant is immediately disqualified when he steps into the ring during the progress of a bout. Quinn added insult to injury when he took a round house kick at Tonneman's jaw. If Tonneman had not disqualified Robert and declared Casey the winner, he would have lost standing as an official.

I do not agree with Robert and Quinn who claim Casey was pinned three times during the final action. Big Steve twice had both of his shoulders on the mat for a second, but it is necessary for a wrestler to pin his opponent for three seconds before he is entitled to a fall.

Robert was clearly outwrestling Casey during the latter stages of the match and he might have gone on to have regained his lost title, if Quinn had not been seized by his unexplainable brain storm.

Quinn is young and fiery, and forgot the great stake for which Robert was battling when he stormed into the ring.

Jack Kearns in Firpo Bout

JACK KEARNS, manager of Jack Dempsey, lost temporary control of himself during the first round of the old Manassa Mauler's bout with Louis Firpo. When Firpo belted Dempsey through the ropes, Kearns turned white and began to yell frantically for the Tiger to get back into the ring.

When the bell sounded for the end of the round, Kearns dropped the bottle containing smelling salts and it crashed into a hundred tiny bits. Kearns mopped up smelling salts and glass with a sponge and then went to Dempsey's assistance.

The average manager of a boxing or ring champion is under too much strain during an important bout to make a good second. Apart from his personal feelings for his protege, he has a huge financial stake in the outcome of a bout, and cannot be expected to think quickly under fire.

Johnny McGrath, when manager of Jim Maloney, told me he would pray in his corner when Shamus would get knocked down.

Johnny Buckley, Jack Sharkey's pilot, took the smelling salts himself as he seconded the former champion against Tom Heeney.

Dan Carroll, when manager of Dick Finnegan, rushed to the ringside and implored Harry Kelley to handle the Dorchester featherweight when the latter received a bad gash under one of his eyes in his Arena bout with Chick Suggs.

Packy McFarland Knocked Out Sheehan

WHEN THE late Jack Sheehan called Packey McFarland's Boston bout with Dave Deshler a draw, Packey hauled off and flattened the referee.

Dan O'Mahony opened a gash on Referee Sam Smith's face during a wild mixup following the Irishman's Garden bout with Strangler Lewis. Danno didn't intend to hit the referee, but Smith got within range while the pride of Ballydehob was doing a little fungo hitting.

The stirring action in the Casey-Robert go did much to revive interest in wrestling. Casey now stands before the world as the wrestling champion, and, other than Robert, I do not believe there is anybody capable of pressing big Steve for his title.

Bob Gregory Makes Surprising Hit

BOB GREGORY, English light-heavyweight, made a surprising hit with the big crowd in the Garden as he decisively won from Art Grennon of Chicago. Gregory is one of the fastest and most brilliant wrestlers to ever show here. I only rated Bob as an ordinary grappler before his match with Grennon, but like most of those persons who saw the Englishman in action, I left the Garden convinced he is the real McCoy.

GROVE GOOD FOR 25

Although he has been in the American League for more than 11 seasons, Robert Moses Grove is making the youngsters look bad by hanging up seven straight victories. "Old Mose" is smart enough to close up when he feels his mates have given him a safe lead and, if the Connies continue to hit, the elongated southpaw from Lonaconing, Md., will chalk up better than 25 wins . . . By-Laws Violated In College Golf

By BILL GRIMES

In the advance notices of the 5th annual championship sent out by the New England Intercollegiate Golf Association, it stipulated that the qualifiers would be limited to the lowest thirty in the 18-hole preliminary round.

When Bill Corcoran and Tom Downey had all of the scores posted there were exactly 33 players who had registered cards of 81 or better.

But the committee announced that the 82s [illegible] the 83s would also be allowed to compete in today's 36-hole test.

The decision was in direct violation of the by-laws, which govern this championship. Apparently the N. E. I. C. A. executives became confused because McDonald and Harrington of Holy Cross were shot-making [illegible] Dartmouth for the Abbott Cup.

Willie Turnesa is favored to repeat his triumph today. Two years ago as a sophomore Willie [illegible] and had the [illegible]

18-Event Program For Harvard

A crucial test in [illegible] baseball, [illegible] Yale matches for the [illegible] crosse and tennis teams, and [illegible] annual Goldthwait Regatta on the Charles feature an 18-event Harvard sports program today.

Ed Ingalls and Bob Fulton will be the starting battery for Harvard at Soldiers Field at 3 p. m. with Hal Wonson and Joe Urban Dartmouth's heavy-hitting catcher, opposing them.

In addition, the freshman ball team will play Exeter Academy.

The away schedule is highlighted by the Adams Cup Regatta on the Severn River at Annapolis in which the varsity, junior and freshman crews of Harvard, Penn and Navy will compete.

Although Princeton's track and field forces are slight favorites to top the Heptagonal Meet at Newton, Harvard's band of 20 entries may cause plenty of trouble.

The mile duel between Harvard's Captain Alex Northrop and Princeton's Joe Brdarek should be the best event on the program.

Coach Gate Hodder's varsity golfers will match shots with Princeton at Stamford, Conn., for the Eastern Intercollegiate League championship, while a group of six Crimson jayvee golfers compete in the New England Intercollegiates at Oakley.

Other home contests find the varsity and freshman lacrosse teams concluding their seasons with Yale at 2:30 P. M. on the New Athletic Field at Cambridge.

The Harvard and Yale tennis teams, with identical seasons records of seven wins and two losses, will meet on the Dunlap courts at 2 P. M.

The varsity polo team plays Yale at Hamilton and the freshman [illegible] team engages Yale '41 at Belmont.

Harvard, Yale, and Princeton will race over the Henley distance in the Charles this afternoon with the varsity and jayvee [illegible] crews competing for the Goldthwait Cup.

Larry Scanlon of Holy Cross wins semifinal in N. E. "100" from Clapp of Brown. Scanlon is defending champion in both 100 and 220.

Mercury Kid B. C. Lone Threat In Meet

By MURRAY KRAMER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 21 — Barring a bus accident or an epidemic of measles, Rhode Island State is a cinch to retain its New England Intercollegiate track championship at Brown Field this afternoon.

FOXX VISIONS BIG YEAR

Draws Parallel to 1932, When He Hit .364

This is the sixth and final of a series of daily articles by Jimmy Foxx, Red Sox slugging sensation on the way Red Sox and veteran baseball writers to the clubs record of batting for the West.

By JIMMY FOXX

As Told to Walter Biles

If history repeats itself, and good things should be expected for the Red Sox this year.

I had a batty year back in 1931, when, in my 12 years in the majors, and other than last year, the only time I've been under .350 in batting.

But I came back the following season with my best record, hitting .364, batting in 163 runs and collecting 58 homers.

So if similar fate is in store, I should do well before the campaign is over, because last year I [illegible] but .285, and in general had a disappointing record.

[illegible] this series in the Record-American, I want to [illegible] my thanks to [illegible] in no small part [illegible] the privilege [illegible] on the way, them and the [illegible]

We are [illegible] together.

At the [illegible] I am feeling better than I have been in years. That physical well being gives me a [illegible] which is helpful [illegible] in my work.

In conclusion let me say that it is a real pleasure to pen such a column as this, and I hope it is going to be mutually most pleasant.

The Red Sox are off to a fine start. And while we're not predicting any pennants we still can't be blamed for hoping.

We'd like to win that flag, not only for ourselves but for the sake of the loyal Boston fandom who are certainly entitled to the very best we can give them.

BEST BET—CLINGENDAAL 5TH RACE

War Minstrel and Corinto, which run coupled as the Mrs. E. Denemark Entry, are highly fancied by this corner to cop off major honors in the $10,000 added Puritan Handicap, mile and a furlong feature at Suffolk Downs today.

Today's Special
Suffolk Downs
CLINGENDAAL—5th

Win	Place	Show
2	2	0

Clingendaal, freshened and splendidly reconditioned since his highly successful campaign at Santa Anita, should celebrate his seasonal debut with an easy victory at the expense of mediocre sprinters opposing him on the Turf Writers Handicap, six furlongs, secondary feature.

FIRST RACE
Candar, Moon Harvest, Believer.

CANDAR closed a tremendous gap the other day to finish fourth in a swiftly-run sprint won by Chancery, and the increased yardage of this number should prove just right. MOON HARVEST held on gamely on his last race to finish third to Kindacorn and Lady Tichner. BELIEVER, a five-star mudder, will be very dangerous in the event of mud.

SECOND RACE
Notoriety, Evening Time, Principessa

NOTORIETY stepped six furlongs over a dull track in 1:14 to win by six lengths from Mr. Buddy and others. The A. G. Silberman colorbearer steps up a couple of rungs on the class ladder in this affair, but there's no telling just how good he may be. EVENING TIME, second to Long Wave in most recent race, should again head PRINCIPESSA.

THIRD RACE
Good Odds, Iskie, War Moon

GOOD ODDS performed like a dead short filly when recently nosed out by ISKIE. With expected improvement, the D. J. Sullivan color-bearer should easily turn the tables on ISKIE, which has a weight shift of three pounds against his chances. WAR MOON finished three lengths thereabouts, in all his Maryland outings.

FOURTH RACE
Legion, Notice Me, Vote Boy.

LEGION, second to Highpool in most recent race, needs only to duplicate that splendid performance to insure brackets. NOTICE ME, which finished only a nose in back of Top selection in the above race, shapes up slightly better than VOTE BOY.

FIFTH RACE
Clingendaal, Orientalist, Stage Beauty

CLINGENDAAL will have only ORIENTALIST to drub. The latter has been thoroughly re-conditioned since his successful campaign in Florida competition and comes strongly recommended by the clocker. STAGE BEAUTY, in under a feather of 95 pounds, will probably be in front during the early running.

SIXTH RACE
War Minstrel, Corinto, Blackbirder

Toss out WAR MINSTREL'S dull effort in the Dixie Handicap at Pimlico. The Royal Minstrel colt did not like that track. Mile in 1.39 3-5 indicates fitness. CORINTO has a good Maryland record and may take it all if the top one makes any mistakes. BLACKBIRDER'S indifferent performance of the other day goes for the boys on the end book.

SEVENTH RACE
R. Pinchot, Tobacco, Braving Danger.

R. PINCHOT is shedding 14 pounds in actual weight and gets a whole skyful of stars from the speed chart experts. TOBACCO won her last race in fast time. BRAVING DANGER will be very dangerous in the event of mud.

EIGHTH RACE
Parity, Mad Frump, Prince Dean

PARITY was in receipt of poor handling when nosed out by Mariato in his last race. MAD FRUMP received two useful tighteners at the recent Pimlico session and will be coming up fit and ready. PRINCE DEAN is improving.

Armstrong Trains for Ross in Secret

Ready For Champ Now

By HYPE IGOE

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., May 21 (INS)—In the olden, golden days of fistiana, champions used to do a little training in secret. Always mysterious and often piloted by managers who wanted to fool the other fellow by creating a doubt as to honest-to-goodness training on the part of the champion, they caused to be broadcast talk of lackadaisical tuning up.

Henry Armstrong may have been criticized for letting down too far away from his fight with Barney Ross, but there has been sound reasons for having called a halt in his work.

When he was seen lolling around Doc Bier's camp from Wednesday until today, some of the old-timers said it was dead wrong. Eddie Mead knows his Henry as no man does. He realizes that Henry has fought himself into condition and that he never is but a pound or two off the training line.

STUDIED ROSS

This Mead did disclose, and we tell it here exclusive! Henry Armstrong has been going through secret drills at "Doc" Bier's camp with Frankie Genovese as the stooge!

"Secret drills, eh?" I asked, when Meade made this unusual disclosure. "Why the private drills? Is Ross causing you that kind of worry?"

"Not at all, Hype. We know that Ross is a great champion, but we think we're a little bit better. We did not halt our public training bouts to spruce up on the balking of one of Barney's moves. We know every one he makes."

LEFTY GROVE, Red Sox—Pitched eight-hit ball to trounce Browns, 16-2, for seventh straight win and drove in four runs with three hits.

Lucky Piece

Presented Ross

GROSSINGER LAKE, N. Y., May 21 (INS)—All the way from China a lucky coin to be delivered to Barney Ross by Lieut. Colonel Randolph Coyle, U. S. Marines, retired.

Colonel Coyle first met Barney in Portland, Ore., several years ago and made an unexpected call at the Ross bungalow. The luck piece is a perforated copper token hammered into a charm from a piece of an old Chinese sword. Intrinsically, it is worth only about one-fifth of an American penny.

"Colonel, do you think you can spare all that dough?" cracked Ross as he received and filed away the good luck charm.

Wilson Has 15 Winners in 4 Days

The most astounding win streak of recent years is being unfolded daily in the Boston Evening American.

Dave Wilson, ace of New England handicappers, swept through the eight race card at Suffolk Downs yesterday and came up with five winners. His other three top choices finished second, two being beaten by the scantiest of margins.

Fifteen winners in four days! An average of almost four winners per day.

Wilson's quintet of winners, yesterday, were: Country Lass, $7.80; Squawker, $6.20; Lady Tichner, $5.20; Stop Light, $3.40, and Major Greenock, $9.20.

During the past four days every one of Dave's best bets was a winner. Notoriety, $5.40; Deep End, $4.80; Dorothy Rock, $4.40, and Squawker, $6.20, all were picked by Dave as the safest hazards of the day.

If any one had played a $2.00 place parlay on Dave's top horses yesterday, he would have been returned the tidy sum of $197.85.

Swifty Contest Winners Named Tuesday

The judges in the Swifty contest have another two days' work ahead of them.

They have already ankled through one huge pile of mail and they believe by Monday they will have found in the big heap the new name for Swifty, the ever elusive mechanical rabbit at Wonderland Park, Revere.

The winners of the contest will be announced in Tuesday's Boston Evening American. And some lucky person will tuck in his pocket the $100 prize for giving the stuffed bunny a new moniker.

Russ Murray

Three other persons, the second, third and fourth prize winners, will also be the proud possessors of a Boston bull terrier thoroughbred pup.

They are grand little youngsters, and soon each of them will be prancing around in new homes.

The prizes will be awarded by Adnah Neyhart, managing director of Wonderland, and Russell Murray, manager of the Bay State Greyhound Association, which raises the curtain on greyhound racing at Revere May 31.

Menow Favored In Withers

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—Headed by Hal Price Headley's Menow, early pace setter in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, nine three-year-olds which possess more speed than stamina will run today in the 63rd withers mile at Belmont Park.

Although listed only as a $5000 added event, the speed test will gross close to $18,000.

The mile is made to order for Menow. With Dah He as a running mate, he figures to go postward at odds of 3 to 5 or shorter. The son of Pharamond was out in front for a mile in both the Derby and Preakness. He weakened in the final drive, however, finishing fourth in the Derby and third in the Preakness.

STABLE BOYS ON STRIKE

LAMBOURN, BERKSHIRE, England, May 21 (AP)—Three hundred stable boys handling six entries in the English Derby, to be run June 1, struck today for a weekly wage increase of five shillings ($1.25).

Kelly Sues Williams! Demands $50,000

Lieut.-Gov. Charges 'Plot'

(Picture on Page 5)

Charging slander and libel, Lieutenant Governor Francis E. Kelly, through counsel, filed suit for $50,000 today against former Commissioner of Mental Diseases Dr. David L. Williams.

The action was brought in Central Municipal Court, where Attorney Samuel E. Green, representing the lieutenant-governor, expects it will come to trial within three weeks, he said today.

The plaintiff's declaration alleges that Dr. Williams falsely and maliciously accused Lieut.-Gov. Kelly of assaulting him at his home May 18, 1937.

This "false and malicious" accusation was made by word of mouth, before witnesses, and was also made in a letter to Gov. Hurley, the declaration says.

SLAP AT HURLEY

The plaintiff further alleges that Gov. Hurley, himself or through agents or representatives, caused publication of "Williams'" letter.

Kelly's declaration asserts that Dr. Williams, in making the alleged "slanderous and libelous" accusation, acted "as the tool and agent of another."

According to the plaintiff's further allegations, Dr. Williams "sought to retain his state position or to assure himself of another and lesser position."

'POLITICAL PLOT'

The alleged slander and libel was in furtherance of a "poffical plot," the Kelly declaration says.

Dr. Williams, named as defendant in the lieutenant governor's suit, was recently ousted from his position as commissioner of mental diseases, by reason of physical disability.

Roosevelt's Son James Faces Knife

His health threatened by a severe stomach ulcer, James Roosevelt will leave Washington and temporarily relinquish duties as secretary to his father, the President, Monday, and hurry by air to Rochester, Minn., for immediate treatment.

Associates of the President's eldest son, who has frequently been mentioned for high office in Massachusetts, stated that strain of duties in the White House has aggravated his ailment.

EXAMINED HERE

He will undergo thorough examination and possible operation at the famed Mayo Brothers Clinic in the Minnesota city.

Young Roosevelt's illness was first confirmed when he underwent X-ray examinations and hospital observation recently in Boston. "Jimmy" will spend much of the summer recuperating at his home in Framingham, friends believe.

IGNORED REST

Reports from Washington today indicated that the illness will not force him to quit his duties as secretary to President Roosevelt, but that he may have to relinquish them temporarily.

Heavy demands have been made on the younger Roosevelt, his friends stated, during the current session of Congress. Energetic and serious in his work, he is said to have toiled without regard for hours or need of rest.

Bandits Rob Wife of $50 In Home

Forced at gunpoint to hand over $50 to three robbers who entered her home through a kitchen window today, a young Cambridge wife was then felled by a revolver blow on the temple and was left unconscious as the bandits escaped, she told police.

Victim was Mrs. Estella Geokas of Watson street, Cambridge.

She was treated at Cambridge City Hospital after she had been assisted to police headquarters by her 14-year-old stepson, James.

FAINTS IN STREET

In a state of near-collapse, she gasped out her story. The boy said she had fainted once on the way to the station.

According to Mrs. Geokas, she was reading in bed when she heard a noise in the kitchen. She thought it might be her husband, who works nights, coming home, she said.

But when she went to the kitchen, according to her story, she was confronted by a big man with a drawn gun.

"We know you've got some money," he said. "Hand it over, or we'll wait and kill your husband."

SAW HER DRAW MONEY

She got $50 from her bedroom and handed it to the gunman, who had two companions, Mrs. Geokas said.

According to her story, the man with the gun then struck her on the head with the barrel of his revolver, knocking her unconscious.

THE WEATHER

Fair, warmer today; Sunday cloudy, cooler; showers possible.
